MINUTES OF ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society was held at the Mission Memorial Hall on Saturday, April 14th, at 3 o'clock p. m., the President, Miss Ethel Damon, presiding.

"Blest be the tie that binds" was sung from the "Cousins' Hymn Book," as compiled by Miss Damon, the music being led, as usual, by our Cousin, Mrs. A. H. B. Judd, at the piano.

The abridged report of the Secretary was read by Miss Judd, the Recorder.

The report of the Board of Managers was presented by the President, and the Treasurer's Report, from March 31, 1922, to January 1, 1923, was read by Treasurer Lyle A. Dickey. These reports were accepted, approved, and ordered printed in the Annual Report, together with a summary of the Hawaiian Trust Company's accounts.

W. W. Chamberlain, for the Committee on By-Laws, presented the following resolutions, which it was voted to adopt:

WHEREAS the fiscal period of this Society has ended on March 31, in each year, and,

WHEREAS it has been difficult for the Treasurer to have his accounts made up and audited in time to present at the annual meeting early in April, and,

WHEREAS, it is desirable that a change be made in the fiscal period of the Society, and,

WHEREAS the funds and finances of the Society have greatly increased and it may be desirable to have an Assistant Treasurer,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the By-Laws of the Society be amended, more particularly Article 11 of the By-Laws, as follows:

By adding at the end of the said Article, following the words "the annual meeting," a new paragraph as follows:

> "The Treasurer may appoint, with the approval of the President, an Assistant Treasurer to whom he may delegate as much of the duties and responsibilities of the Treasurer as may be appropriate or desirable. The year referred to in this Article will be the calendar year," so that the Article will then read:

"ARTICLE 11.

"The Treasurer shall receive and safely keep all moneys belonging to the Corporation, and pay out therefrom only upon order of the Board of Managers or on approval of the President. He shall countersign all certificates of membership, and shall at each annual meeting present an accurate statement of the receipts and disbursements of the Corporation during the year, and of its invested funds, and present his books and vouchers to the Auditor to audit before the annual meeting.

"The Treasurer may appoint, with the approval of the President, an Assistant Treasurer to whom he may delegate as much of the duties and responsibilities of the Treasurer as may be appropriate or desirable. The year referred to in this Article will be the calendar year."

The President displayed a framed placard relating to the dedication of the Chamberlain House, which was found in Boston and presented by Mr. Howard Ballou to the H. M. C. Society in 1923. It will be hung in the Chamberlain House.

"The Life of Lucy G. Thurston" and the "Missionary Album" were on the desk for sale, and attention was called to the same.

Miss Judd, as Recorder, called for help in collecting items for the "Big Book" of genealogies.

She then read, for Mrs. Andrews, the Secretary's appreciation of her 80th birthday celebration.

In compliment to the 80 year old Secretary, there was a violin solo by little 9 year old Sophie Judd, and a short, sweet piano selection by her sister Helen—daughters of Lawrence M. Judd, president of the senate.

When a membership committee was suggested, W. W. Chamberlain said that with two very small exceptions, all descendants of his grandparents are now members of the H.M.C.S., and this record was bettered by the Emersons, who have no exceptions.

A discussion on tree-planting netted recommendations to the new Home and Grounds Committee of several favorite old trees.

The resignation of Treasurer Lyle A. Dickey, after 28 years of faithful, efficient service, was accepted with regret, and a vote of thanks and appreciation was tendered him.

The Nominating Committee, Miss Harriet Forbes, Chairman, named the following list of persons for officers, and they were duly elected.

President.....Miss Ethel M. Damon
Vice-President.....Mr. Wm. P. Alexander
Secretary.....Mrs. R. W. Andrews
Treasurer.....Mr. W. W. Chamberlain
Auditor.....Mr. Cyril F. Damon

The President reported the passing, less than an hour before the meeting, of Rev. Dr. John T. Gulick, and Mr. Joseph Emerson paid tribute to his master mind, his international fame as a scientist, his authorship of books on evolution, his noble work as a missionary, and voiced the Society's loss in his going. It was voted to send to his bereaved friends an expression of the love and sympathy of the Cousins.

The collection for the day was $17.05.

Because of the lateness of the hour the two papers, especially prepared for the day, were omitted from the program.

The Roll-call left the Judds still in the lead, though with only 16 descendants present. They were closely followed by the Chamberlains, who numbered 15, the Cookes with 14, the Halls 12, Binghams 11, Baldwins 10, and the Alexanders, Bishops, Bonds, Clarks and J. W. Smiths each 7. The Damons and Lymans each number 6, the Forbes 5, the Thurstons and L. Smiths each 4, Armstrongs, Dimonds, Johnson and Paris each 3, Dole and Emerson each 2, while Andrews and Rowell numbered 1 each.

Mrs. Judd then led this unique family of Cousins and their many friends in singing, "From Greenland's icy mountains,"—and the 71st Annual Meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. R. W. ANDREWS,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS

Honolulu, April 14, 1923.

To the Members of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society:

During the absence of your President for several months after the Annual Meeting last year, the Vice-President, Mr. George Carter, acted as presiding officer in the appointment of committees for the year. When Mr. Carter himself was about to leave in August, to be away a year or more, he called a meeting of the Board of Managers who elected Mr. W. W. Chamberlain to serve as vice-president for the rest of the year. As a parting bequest to his successor, Mr. Carter left an urgent request that the accounts of the Society, in which considerable sums are now involved, be examined with a view toward their simplification.

Mr. Chamberlain has now made this examination, and the following recommendations submitted by him were approved by the Board of Managers on April 9th, 1923:

1. That the fiscal year of the Society be changed to correspond with the calendar year. This will greatly simplify the keeping of accounts, will allow ample time between the end of the fiscal year and the annual meeting in April for auditing the Treasurer's account, and will not conflict in any way with the usual election of officers and annual meeting in April.

2. That the numerous bonds of small denominations now owned by the Society be sold, when possible, and the funds invested in good bonds of larger denominations.

Not only the Board of Managers, but also the whole Society is deeply indebted to Mr. Chamberlain for his generosity in the expense of time and labor in collecting facts and figures for this report. He has also been so kind as to secure legal advice on framing resolutions for the alterations in the By-Laws necessitated by this change of the fiscal year. We feel that, owing to his kindness and skill, we now bid fair to have a clear and logical status in our financial affairs.

The Board of Managers also passed on appropriations for the year 1923 with the following allotments:

To the Aintab Mission in Turkey	$100.00
To a pupil in Kawaiahao Seminary	100.00
To a pupil in Kohala Seminary	100.00
To five pupils in Makawao Seminary	385.00
	$685.00

Your President had previously written to both Kohala and Makawao Seminaries for recommendations as to continuing these allotments. In both cases, the principals urged the continuance of the scholarships, even in the case of the famous twins at Maunaolu who, with the best of training, will, it seems, never be tamed, preferring to roam Maui's green hills in trousers.

On March 7th, 1923, the Board of Managers held an informal meeting at the Old Mission House. This was in honor of the 80th birthday of the Secretary of the Society, Mrs. Robert Andrews, the Board having previously circulated a special letter which resulted in a contribution of $1,935.00 for that auspicious event.

On retiring, your president wishes to thank all the officers and committeemen, as well as the Board of Managers and several hundred members of the Society for hearty cooperation throughout the year.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL M. DAMON,
President.

THE HOOKUPU FOR THE SECRETARY.

It was strange that Miss Damon had referred to "duty" in her letter of birthday congratulations. Nobody had ever before seemed to consider it necessary to prod Mrs. Andrews about duty;—but Miss Damon trusted that the faithful little Secretary's anniversary would not interfere with her being at her duties as usual.

There had been vague thoughts of staying home just that once. An eightieth birthday is such a special sort of an occasion. But if the President felt that way about it—well, duty, after all, was the natural, normal thing: early and late; rain or shine; happy or sad; weary or no—duty, duty, duty,—duty so merged with interest and love that to analyze and separate the three would be well nigh impossible.

Duty proved far from irksome that day. True there were interruptions, but they were such bright, such fragrant interruptions—spicy, rich-hued roses, delicate sweet peas, French bouquets, orchids, clusters of varied bloom from a home garden—oh the interruptions were of a kind one does not mind at all!

In the afternoon members of the Board of Managers began to drift in. They were having a meeting, it seemed. Yet the Secretary had sent no cards. Queer, that the methods should be so changed without notice!

The members seemed oddly restless; very chatty, very loath to settle down to business, very willing to wait for tardy ones. The men's faces didn't wear that American business look that they sometimes brought from their offices. All congratulated Mrs. Andrews, of course. Other Cousins happened in just then for that purpose, but the Board of Managers didn't seem to mind their presence, and at last the President announced the object of the meeting.

They had gathered to honor the eightieth birthday!

There were more roses, roses that represented the kindly thoughts of one hundred and thirty-seven Cousins to whom Miss Damon had written about the event. They would have represented hundreds more had there been time to notify any but Island Cousins. But the whole thing had been hurriedly "cooked up" in ten days. Agnes Judd's idea, sponsored by Will Chamberlain, and acted upon with Ethel Damon's usual vigor, had been joyfully responded to, and the letters that poured in were said to be full of affectionate appreciation of "dear Mrs. Andrews."

No birthday is complete without a cake, Miss Damon said, and she set a box before the smiling Secretary, requesting that it be opened immediately. The "cake" proved to be a black beaded bag, so beautiful that Mrs. Andrews says she will have to carry it several times before she dares take it to church, if she expects to pay any attention to the sermon! It was only when the recipient was reminded that cakes are meant to be opened all the way through, that she found the bag wasn't empty—far from it.

First she discovered a little jewelry box.

"Earrings!" someone cried, "Lo-o-ong earrings!"

But it wasn't anything half so bad. It was a very pretty wrist watch that Mrs. Andrews saw clasped on, with (may I say girlish?) pleasure; a watch that can be read by radium at night, and with figures that show very plainly, especially the four p. m., the hour that Mrs. Andrews MUST leave her work and go home.

Also there was a daintily fine handkerchief, and a soft little gray wallet, initialed.

It took desperate hints to make Mrs. Andrews open that wallet. She didn't suspect that there was the slightest reason for doing so. Then, when she found the checks, the secret came out. The hundred and thirty-seven Cousins had sent contributions amounting to $1,935.00!

Miss Damon told interesting details of the eager responses that had answered the call.

In speaking of the "cake" she remarked that it was of the kind that one may "eat and have too"; and I think we understood. Of course none of us can imagine Mrs. Andrews spending that amount of money in a few days or weeks, but we know that even though she should choose to do so, she would still have the best part of the cake—the love and appreciation that the Cousins have tried to express.

These will be hers always. E. L. D.

THE SECRETARY'S APPRECIATION

Read at the Annual Meeting

It was a beautiful thought, that of an eightieth birthday hookupu on March 7, 1923, and it was graciously carried out in every detail. Not a whisper came to the ears of the recipient from the white-winged missives that sped so hurriedly from island to island—missives of good will translated into legal tender, with power to dispel any possible worry over future inactive days. There were kind and glad wishes also carried by those fairy messengers,—some of them wishes for "frivolous things, such as a new dress," or perhaps a week or two of vacation spent on Tantalus, or some other cool, restful spot.

No wonder your Secretary was overwhelmed when all these cheery wishes came sparkling from the black-beaded beauty-bag, and ticking from the dainty little wrist-watch, and exhaling perfume from the eight-y American Beauty roses and countless other flowers. —No wonder she was speechless,—but she can not forget. The sparkling bag will always tell of the radiant faces surrounding the office table that day, as well as of the 137 and more absent ones. The illuminated hands of the watch will ever point, even in the darkest night, to the coming hours of day, and to the abounding love of God, revealed, as at this time, through His children.

And while the heart of your Secretary was overflowing with surprise and grateful appreciation, these Cousins added yet one more touch of graciousness and told her she deserved it all. It is true that she had worked early and late for the Society for many years, but that was because she loved it so. And this devotion was given, not only because the Society was very dear to the heart of the one she loved best, nor also because she tried to be a worthy follower of her predecessor, Aunt Mattie Chamberlain, who as secretary put her whole soul into it for so many years, but it originated in a bit of girlish romance.

Long ago, in the very early 60's, when the rules governing girls' boarding schools were very strict, an innovation occurred at the Oxford Female College, Oxford, Ohio. A musical soiree was held, and students from Miami University were not only invited by Prof. Karl Merz to sing, but after the concert were actually permitted to promenade with the girls, in the long corridors and on the vine-shaded verandahs. It was then, from the lips of a tall, handsome University student from far away Hawaii, that a young school-girl heard, for the first time, the unique story of the Cousins' Society,—and the glamour of that wonderful night, for her, surrounds the Cousins' Society still.

TREASURER'S REPORT HAWAIIAN MISSION CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

April 1, 1922—December 31, 1922

In the past the financial year of this Society has ended March 31st and it has been the habit of the treasurer to send a circular letter asking for annual contributions to members over the wide world shortly before the annual meeting and most receipts and payments have occurred between January 1st and March 31st. Since the invested funds have been placed with Hawaiian Trust Co., Ltd., something over a year ago, it has been impossible between March 31st and the annual meeting to prepare a complete financial statement for the year and it has been decided to have the financial year end Dec. 31st each year and this report covers the period between April 1 and Dec. 31, 1922. This accounts for the omission of items usually seen. The response to this year's circular was as hearty as ever but does not appear in this report.

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Introduction.

Last year's Annual Report, the 70th, was unavoidably late. For this reason, probably, some who should have received their books were temporarily away on their vacation, and the books were returned. If any copy has gone astray, the Secretary will be glad to forward another.

Our proteges, this year, are Miriam Guerrero, Ethel Ching, Mary and Martha Naukana, and Eva Becky Kahele at Maunaolu; Mary Kaheiki at Kohala; and Helen Iona at Kawaiahao. Miriam, who is to graduate from the 8th grade in June, and who stands well in the Industrial Department, expects to go to the mainland in August with one of her teachers, there to continue her education.

An oil painting of Charlotte Close Knapp Dole, step-mother of Sanford Ballard Dole, was presented to the Society on Aug. 9, 1922, by Judge S. B. Dole.

A letter from T. Munson Coan to Judge Dole, was also given to the Society.

"Bingham Row," a photograph of Hiram Bingham III, wife and seven sons, was given to the Cousins' Society by Mrs. Albert F. Judd.

In March Mrs. Clara Sutherland brought in old photographs of her mother, Mrs. Sophia Bingham Moseley; her aunts, Mrs. Lucy Bingham, afterwards Mrs. Reynolds; Miss Elizabeth Bingham, and Mrs. Lydia Bingham Coan. She also gave a small photograph of her Uncle Hiram,—thus making a whole page of Binghams for the Picture-pillar.

The H. M. C. S. grounds never looked so well as now. The great sweep of green lawn, neatly kept, surrounds the buildings, and is separated by the low, curved coral wall from the clean cement streets of King and Kawaiahao. The January storm did not rob us of any of our old trees, only stripping them bare of leaves which were soon replaced by others tinted with the delicate shades of a northern springtime. Yamagata's old house leaked badly during the storm, but he patched it up temporarily. Really, it should have a new roof.

The Library has received many favorable comments and has been useful to a number of students from the University of Hawaii, to authors when gathering material, and to Mr. Kuykendall, who is preparing a history to be used in the schools of Hawaii. Mr. Howard M. Ballou, who was agent for Mr. Carter in collecting most of the books in the library, spends some hours every day in making out a new catalogue, while Rev. B. T. Sheeley carefully discharges the duties of Librarian. Mr. Sheeley has also been transcribing in the "Big Book," for the Recorder, the many new genealogical records she has been preparing.

A new Visitors' Book has been purchased for the Old Mission House. Many who registered have enjoyed studying the strong characters of the missionaries as revealed in their pictured faces. Some visitors have expressed fear of going through the floors, and have suggested putting new boards underneath these riddled ones, thus reinforcing the building while leaving it practically intact. The missionaries have been especially interesting visitors as they passed to and from the Orient.

In our account of Mission Workers we have spoken of a few of these, and have also mentioned our workers at home,—those under the Hawaiian Board, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and Salvation Army. We only touch elbows, as it were, with these many co-laborers, as all together we are trying to boost the world upward.

In the School Department of our Report we have taken more pages than usual in telling of our old schools and new, and of the wonderful opportunities the children of today are having in industrial training and preparation for their life-work. But of late our hearts have been saddened by the fear that these great opportunities may be taken away, and the schools cease to go forward. But it surely will not be.

The Roll-call, of course, is the most interesting part of the Secretary's report, and there is no need to call attention to the doings recorded of many members in our large family of 1170 Cousins. We know you will be interested in the Vital Statistics, for to this page every one turns first, to welcome the coming guest, to listen to the merry wedding bells, and to speed the parting dear ones to that beautiful home "prepared for all who love Him."

MISSION WORKERS.

Where should we begin to tell of these "builders for the future" but right here, at home.

Rev. A. W. Palmer spent his summer vacation in Honolulu, lending his aid in the erection of the new Central Union Church. The contract was awarded, ground was broken and work started in August. The cornerstone was laid in December; at which ceremony W. R. Castle and little Phoebe Cooke took the places of "Father Castle" and Phoebe's mother, then Sophie Judd,—the oldest and youngest members at the time of the earlier ceremony—who spread the mortar at the laying of the cornerstone of the present church in 1892. The contents of the box from the old cornerstone were noted and read, and also the names of the articles deposited in the new one. Since then the walls of the new structure have been climbing to meet the rafters, which seem to rest almost against the vaulted blue of the heavens.

Rev. A. E. Shattuck, the Central Union Educational Worker, has already been utilizing the grounds by introducing his young folks to them, holding many Young People's meetings in the club rooms.

Rev. E. T. Sherman, former Associate Pastor, now chaplain at Kamehameha Schools, and Mrs. Sherman, are often with us and ready to "lend a hand."

Miss Clara Fraser, Secretary, is a live wire through whom Mission news is received and aid goes out.

The Jubilee Fund of the Woman's Board of Missions has already borne fruit in sending Miss Maud McGwigan, a trained nurse, to work in the hospital at Lintsing, Shantung Province, China, with Dr. Alma Cooke. She spent two weeks in Honolulu, leaving Sept. 28, 1922. A reception was tendered her in Central Union Church, and on Wednesday evening she gave an interesting account of her work in Turkey—in a hospital at Marsovan and in a child welfare clinic in Constantinople.

Miss Elva Robertson, who has taken Miss Julia Gulick's place in Japanese Mission work for the Woman's Board, lives at Kakaako in the shadow of the Japanese Church, and in her quiet way of doing the people good has won her way into their hearts.

Mrs. Dean Wickes, Central Union's missionary in Peking, China, writes of the death of their little Mary Frances, 14 months old, and of the opening of the C. U. Christmas box with its gifts for 400 people, and of the joy of all present at the occasion.

Rev. and Mrs. Raymond M. Cross, also of Peking, are soon to spend a couple of weeks in Honolulu, on their way to the United States.

Mr. Li Hu, of Tunghsien, China, is the missionary supported by the Sunday School of Central Union.

Mrs. Elijah McKenzie, long supported by the Woman's Board, then by the Hawaiian Board of Missions, had a year's leave of absence which she spent in China. She is now temporarily working among the Chinese women in Honolulu, under the Woman's Board. Her stories of village life in China are thrilling.

Old Kawaiahao Church has had a new dress of liquid cement which has smoothed the walls and reinforced their strength, and this, with the outlining anew, in white paint, of the primitive great blocks of coral, has given the historic structure quite a rejuvenated appearance. On July 2nd the church organization celebrated its Centennial anniversary. Rev. Akaiko Akana was Moderator. Rev.

Stephen Desha delivered the historical address. At the same time—June 27-July 2—the Evangelical Association held its one-hundredth annual meeting, with its time-honored sunrise prayer meetings, its devotional hour, business meeting and Bible exposition—all held in the morning. In the afternoon the Christian Endeavor and S. S. Associations held meetings, and at 7:30 p. m. addresses were made from the topics: "The Christian in the Home," "The Christian in the Community," "Religious Education," etc. One evening was taken up in discussion of Rehabilitation of Hawaiians and another in Service of Song.

Under the Hawaiian Board, the steady growth of The Christian Workers' Institute, with Dr. L. G. Davis at its head, assisted by Supt. Theodore Richards and Miss Anita W. Lake, the Extension Secretary, has been marked. The unfolding of this C. W. I. into the Honolulu Theological Seminary has been a beautiful thing. Rev. John P. Erdman is president of the Seminary, with Rev. Lloyd G. Davis, D.D., Rev. J. W. Countermine, D.D., and Mrs. L. J. Doane as instructors.

The Honolulu Bible Training School began its 19th year in September with a class of 234. This class meets but once a week, but after four years its graduates go out as Sunday School workers and leaders in their many country homes throughout the land.

Some changes have taken place in the personnel of the Hawaiian Board's workers.

The Rev. W. A. Tate resigned his pastorate at Lahaina and left the Islands in October to take a position in California. He had done much Americanization work among the Filipinos and Japanese and won many friends among them. They bade him good-bye with heartfelt expressions of regret. Mr. Tate is now in Humboldt, Arizona.

Rev. Allen R. Gates, born in India of missionary parentage, and whose father was assassinated by a fanatical Indian, has come to take Mr. Tate's place at Lahaina. He and his wife arrived in Honolulu in February.

The death of S. R. Ygloria in October was a great loss to the Hawaiian Board. He was founder of the Ewa Filipino church, the first Filipino church on the Islands, and was founder and editor, since 1915, of the Ang Abyan, the first Christian Filipino paper in Hawaii. Rev. E. Centeno is supplying his place in the Ewa church and on the Ang Abyan.

The Inter-church Federation's sunrise Easter Service of 1922 was held on Punchbowl Hill as usual, this time taking the form of a Pageant of the Resurrection taken from the Gospels, and based on "The Dawning," by Lyman R. Bayard. The service closed with the singing of "In the Cross of Christ I Glory" and "Mine eyes have seen the Glory, etc."

The Y. M. C. A. sent Lloyd R. Killam, Gen. Sec. of Y. M. C. A., as delegate to the World's Student Christian Federation, which met in Peking, China, April 4-9, 1922. Mr. Killam has given much attention to the International Department with its night classes, lectures, etc. The Y. M. C. A. Summer School Conference was held on the campus of Punahou Academy, Aug. 18-29, attended by the Army and Navy, the International and the Central Y. M. C. A. secretaries. The mornings were given to class work and the afternoons to conferences and recreation. The School was pronounced very successful and the standards were said to be very high.

The Y. W. C. A., among the many new subjects taken up this year, has emphasized "Corrective and Individual Health Gymnastics," under the care of Miss Cora Dilly, assisted by our Miss Margaret Cooke.

The International Y. W. C. A., at its headquarters, 1562 Nuuanu Ave., held a beautiful Christmas service under the direction of Miss Mary Burbank. The audience, numbering hundreds of people, were seated in front of the building—formerly the Waterhouse place—under the grand old trees through which the moonlight filtered, while the long verandahs formed an ideal stage. The story of the Nativity was presented in tableau—the announcement of the angels to the shepherds and the visit of the wise men. Then was presented a play—"A Christmas Eve in a Christian home," with the hanging of the stockings, etc., and when the tableaus were over the children were taken to the back yard where the brilliant Christmas Tree stood, with its candy and other gifts for all.

The Girl Scouts of Oahu celebrated their fifth anniversary Dec. 15th. They received as a birthday present, 12 "pup" tents and several large tents as equipment for camping. Miss Agnes Judd, Girl Scout Commissioner for Oahu, gave a brief resume of the organization on Hawaii. "The first Girl Scout troop," she said, "was organized at Kamehameha School for Girls by one of the teachers, Miss Florence J. Lowe. The second troop was formed soon after at Kakaako Mission with Mrs. Wm. Knott as its captain." Within the year there were eight more formed, or ten in all, and their first field day was held at Kamehameha Athletic Field, May 25, 1918. They now number 525, mostly in Honolulu.—In Hilo, Hawaii, the first troop on Hawaii was formed soon after that of Oahu. Maui organized in 1920 while Kauai has two troops." "The ten scout laws which each girl promises to obey," Miss Judd says, "include honor, loyalty, usefulness, friendliness, courtesy, kindness to animals, obedience, cheerfulness, thrift and purity." The Constitution teaches patriotism, love for America, and service in the home and in the community.

With Miss Judd, who gives much time and ability to the work, is Miss Cecil Black, the Executive Officer or Local Director, and the faithful captains of the troops. The newest troop is from Kawaiahao church, who, with their captain, come with the sanction of their minister, Rev. Akaiko Akana, and the deacons of the church.

The Boy Scouts held a mass meeting or Makahiki, in Feb. that was reported as a grand success, each troop exhibiting some stunt, and all together singing in real harmony. Among good deeds reported was that of a number of Boy Scouts teaching a new troop of Girl Scouts outdoor cooking—so that the latter might pass examinations.

Again, the Boy Scouts and Scout masters of every troop under the jurisdiction of the Honolulu Council reported at Thomas Square at 9 o'clock, Feb. 22, to participate with the R. O. T. C. in the Washington birthday celebration. They marched down Beretania and Miller Streets to the Capitol grounds and around in front of the Executive building, where they passed in review before Gov. Farrington, Gen. Summerall, Admiral Simpson, members of the legislature and many invited guests. Here Troop 2 exhibited the Voice and Pen Drill, a member of Troop 17 gave the Lone Scout Drill, and the Pyramids and Tumbling were shown by Troop 19. There were also Relay Scout Races, under the supervision of Commissioner W. W. Thayer.

The Sea Scouts are rejoicing over the new whale-boat with sails, received through their president, W. F. Dillingham, from Admiral Simpson and the Navy Department; and now their school and home problems have a subconscious background of a cruise upon the deep blue sea.

Among the guests of the Hawaiian Board were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butler, who spent a few weeks of January in Hawaii, visiting churches and schools, and with sacred song and story literally singing Christian joy and good will into the minds and hearts of many of our young people.

In August the brothers, Sherwood and Brewer Eddy, spent a day in Honolulu on their way to China and Japan. Mr. Sherwood Eddy is one of the International Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and at a luncheon given in their honor at the Young Hotel spoke on "Present Day World Conditions." Mr. Brewer Eddy also spoke that day. As a secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions he returned from the Orient in January and spent a week here, acquainting himself with Mission work in Hawaii.

Miss Mary E. Woolley, Pres. of Mt. Holyoke College, passed through Honolulu in June and was given a large reception by Holyoke graduates and their husbands, with Holyoke tourists then in the city.

Dr. H. H. Kelsey, when passing through and speaking of the Washington Conference, said that three things had been demonstrated at this conference—the success of missions in China and Japan; the necessity of missions; and the equality of the races.

Rev. George H. Dekay, formerly a Hawaiian Board minister at Kahului, is now in charge of the Anti-Saloon League on the Islands. "In Waimea, Kauai," he says, "there came together nine Buddhist priests, one Shinto priest, four Japanese Christian ministers, two newspaper men, one woman—wife of one of the priests—and three white ministers;—all promising their help and co-operation in educating the people in the benefits of prohibition and better enforcement of the laws. The spirit of the meeting was most brotherly."

Rev. Clifford Gordon, Financial Director of the Victorian Anti-Liquor League of Melbourne, Australia, returning from the great temperance conventions in the East and from studying the effects of prohibition in America, stopped here on his way home, to report progress and urge zealous continuance in prohibition enforcement.

Dr. Doremus Scudder is now filling the pulpit of the First Congregational Church of Claremont, Calif., during the absence of its pastor. He resigned from his position as Executive Secretary for the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

Rev. Frank Scudder, of the Hawaiian Board, went to the Atlantic Coast for a vacation and rest and incidentally was present at the marriage of his eldest daughter, Margaret, to Charles C. Gabel.

We note the death of Rev. W. E. Clarke, for many years missionary in Samoa, and friend of Robert Louis Stevenson. He was an honored guest in Honolulu but recently at the Woman's Board Jubilee, and also represented the London Missionary Society at our Centennial in 1920.

Miss Ida C. Foss, a Micronesian missionary in the '90's, also passed away in Melrose, Mass., in May of 1917.

Miss Augusta Delaporte, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Delaporte, born in Honolulu when on their way to evangelize Nauru, is now Secretary of the Young Women's Branch, Woman's Board, of the Interior.

Rev. and Mrs. Guy Talbot were on the Islands in February, assisting Mrs. Westervelt and others of the Near East Relief Association in raising money for the Armenians. Mr. Talbot spoke thrillingly of what he saw in Turkey and of what America is doing to alleviate the suffering. $26,000 were raised and many bundles of old clothes sent to the destitute there.

The solicitors for the Welfare drive in January raised nearly $380,000 for the benevolent organizations of Hawaii.

Many items of interest might be brought in here.

The Palama Settlement about a year ago bought 8 acres more of land between Asylum Road and King Street, and on this they are planning to establish many improvements—gymnasiums, a swimming tank and fields for athletics. The new athletic field is to be called The W. R. Castle Athletic Field.

The National Park, Kilauea, has been laid out in trails—which opens out wonderful sights for those who have time and inclination to explore.

The Viaduct at Heeia, Oahu, a part of the Kamehameha Highway, which spans 900 feet of low-lying marsh lands, is of reinforced concrete, and is of the highest type of engineering.

The burning of the S.S. "City of Honolulu" at sea and rescue of the passengers, in October, was an event of thrilling interest, as many Honolulans were aboard.

The report of the sugar crop for 1922, given out in November, was approximately 585,000 tons—valued at $51,500,000. The estimate for next year is 508,508 tons.

The Pan-Pacific Commercial Congress met in Honolulu Oct. 26-Nov. 8, where they took up the subjects of food, fuel, banking and shipping problems—a convention of far-reaching importance.

The opening of two first class theaters was quite an event in Honolulu this year.

On Kauai, the Historical Society and the Library Association have been centers of much interest, as well as the Community House at Hanalei.

The "Old Schoolhouse" has been used during the year by the Humane Society as a Thrift Shop, and quite a bit of money has been raised for the cause. Now rumor has it that Bethel Street is to be extended, and if so the headquarters of the kindergarten will be removed from the Old Damon place to the "Old Schoolhouse." And that reminds us of two bits of history that have just come to light. In a letter, written by Mother Armstrong to Father and Mother Gulick, are these words: "The School house was dedicated today," Jan. 10, 1833. We also find, under date of Dec. 14, 1831, "Prayer meeting was held for the first time in the Chamberlain house."

SCHOOLS.

Our thoughts turn first to those schools founded and taught by the missionaries and by the brave missionary Mothers. Many of these schools prospered for years, doing rare service, and when they had accomplished their purpose were disbanded. Those remaining in the order of their founding are:

Lahainaluna, founded in 1831 with Rev. Lorrin Andrews as its first principal, was primarily a Normal school—the first Normal school in Hawaii; but from necessity it was also a mechanical and agricultural school. The school is now under the Board of Education as an Agricultural School, and carries the boys through the 8th and 9th grades in their studies. The present principal, Charles S. Putnam, is from Park College, Missouri, and is said to inspire the boys with his Western enthusiasm. He writes, "The organization and plan of work of the school has been changed but little since Mr. McDonald left, a year and a half ago. The same arrangement of school work, shop work and Sunday services has been maintained. . . . This year more attention has been paid to the manual work and to instruction in agriculture. The agricultural work has been under the charge of the principal, who is a graduate of an agricultural college. The instruction in agriculture has been given by Mr. Robert Warne, a graduate of the College of Agriculture of the Univ. of California, who has taken a great interest in his work and has created great enthusiasm among the boys. . . . The enrollment for the fall term was one hundred. Of this number about forty-five were Hawaiian or part Hawaiian. The other fifty-five per cent of the school consists of Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese, Filipinos and a few of other extractions."

We plead for the life of Lahainaluna, the school that for 92 years has furnished ministers and historians of note, educators, legislators and mechanics, and now is needed more than ever before to provide agriculturists to aid in the rehabilitation of the Hawaiian race. Eight more years will bring its centennial, and then, when the records of its achievements are summed up, should its usefulness be found to be at an end, let it die,—but not now.

Hilo Boys' Boarding School was founded in 1836 for the purpose of fitting boys for Lahainaluna Seminary. It continued under the care of its founder, David B. Lyman, for thirty-eight years, and the same method of educating the head, the hand and the heart that was begun here and at Lahainaluna from necessity, was in this school continued through all the years, and was copied by Gen. Samuel C. Armstrong for the Hampton Schools.

Mr. Levi C. Lyman, grandson of the founder, after serving as principal for a quarter of a century, has resigned,—though he still remains treasurer and a very active trustee. Mr. George M. Hargrave, the new principal, arrived July 30, 1922, from South Dakota, with his wife and little son, and spent the first month with Mr. Lyman in becoming acquainted with the school and forming plans for the year.

Punahou School was founded in 1841 for Missionaries' children, to still the heart-breaking cry of the mothers, who must otherwise send their little ones around Cape Horn to far away America. Rev. Daniel Dole was the first principal and his assistants were Miss Marcia Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Rice. The years have been eventful and success has crowned the enterprise.

The 82nd year of Punahou School opened Sept. 11, 1922, with a new President, Arthur A. Hauck, several new teachers among the 85 members of the faculty, and an attendance of over 900 pupils. The Academy is still in charge of E. T. Chase. The Junior Academy is cared for by A. E. Robinson, the Elementary School by Miss Mary P. Winne, the Music School by Miss Marie Sloss and the Boarding Department for girls by Miss Helen F. Jackson. Manual arts and Household arts are taught, and there is also a Business course. Military training is given the boys and a medical examination is required of boys and girls. Two librarians care for the 20,000 volumes in the Cooke Library, and there is a campus policeman living on the grounds. The beautiful campus, with the S. T. Alexander Athletic Field and the Elizabeth P. Waterhouse swimming tank, is the pride of the Trustees. A portion of Griffiths Hall has recently been constructed, containing dressing rooms and lockers for the girls. The students publish a weekly paper, Ka Punahou, and the Dramatic Club has given several interesting plays. In the Punahou faculty the Cousins, or those eligible to become Cousins, are Mary Winne, Kathryn Lyman, Mrs. Henry Judd, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Sadie Sutton Whitney and Twigg Smith.

Maunaolu Girls' School was founded in 1861 as a family school by Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Andrews. In 1864 it passed under the principalship of Rev. J. Porter Green, his wife, Hattie Parker Green, and his sister, Mary Green. The building was burned in 1869 and the school disbanded. In 1871 the house was rebuilt under the direction of Father Bailey, and Mr. Andrews and family returned with Miss Helen E. Carpenter, who afterward, in 1874, became principal. Years passed; new principals and new teachers came and went, the house was again demolished by fire, and this time was rebuilt at Sunnyside,—further down the mountain-side, near Paia. Now, in 1923, the school under Miss May E. Nance as principal, with a loyal faculty and about 100 pupils, is in a very prosperous condition.

At present the Cousins are paying the tuition of five girls at Maunaolu, in whose welfare they are greatly interested. A recent letter from Marion Guerrero, who will leave next year, tells of her studies, of her home duties, of an outing to Wailuku, and of a beautiful opportunity she has been offered, to accompany one of her teachers to the mainland next summer, there to continue her studies.

The Mid-Pacific Institute, composed, as it is, of Kawaiahao Seminary, founded in 1864, and Mills School for Boys, begun in 1892, is trying out this year the Co-educational plan, and on the whole has found it a success.

The school is non-racial and non-sectarian, but aims, first of all, to be a Christian boarding school, and gives the finest kind of training in Christian character and American citizenship, and fits the pupils intellectually and otherwise, to become leaders among their own people and throughout the Pacific world.

The buildings are handsome structures, built of Hawaiian rock, and situated on most sightly grounds up in Manoa Valley. It is well equipped for teaching all the up-to-date topics and has an able faculty of thirty-five teachers. The classes range from the fifth grade up through a regular High School course, which offers a College Preparatory or a Commercial course. Athletics are much in evidence in all the grades, as are the Glee Clubs, Orchestra and Dramatics. The students attend Sunday school and church services in the churches of their own nationality and have their own Christian Endeavor Society and Bible classes.

Mid-Pacific is fitted to care for two hundred boys and one hundred and twenty-five girls.

Kohala Girls' School. Ever since the Centennial much interest has centered in the progress made toward erecting the much needed school buildings. This year the principal, Miss Mary H. Richardson, writes:

"The building program inaugurated four years ago has been carried out to the completion of a large and beautiful Industrial Building, light, roomy and convenient, with a large dining hall, kitchen with crude oil burner, and hot water connections to the sinks, and stationary tubs in the basement, where the girls do their laundry. A hot bath for the girls and two lavatories are also connected. On the sunny side of the building is the sewing room with drawers and cupboards for the sewing classes.

World industrial conditions have changed the financial condition of our treasury, and gifts do not come in as before,—so building is at a stand-still. We shall be very glad when the new Administration Building and the new Dormitory may be erected as planned. With this in view, the students are receiving practical instruction in all departments pertaining to the care of the home, besides the regular school-work through the 8th grade, together with chorus work and public school music and some piano lessons. That the girls may become thoroughly grounded in these, together with Bible Instruction and Christian Endeavor, a ninth grade is to be added next year.

Although new to this work and to conditions in Hawaii, I have entered upon my work with enthusiasm, and am very ambitious to assist young women in their development of a life that shall be a blessing to the world. While building and equipment are an advantage, still the work goes on with the old facilities. Our fifty girls have the right spirit, do their work cheerfully, and each contributes her bit toward making the family life agreeable and Christian."

A later letter from Miss Richardson says, "We are hoping in a vague sort of way that some of the sugar prosperity of these days may make people think of our needs with a liberal disposition, and that we may be able to have a dormitory where the girls can have a little privacy in their daily life, and have their property rights respected better than is possible in present conditions."

A letter from Mary Kaheiki, our protege at Kohala, tells of a play the girls are giving at Kohala Social Hall for the benefit of the school. Mary likes the school and her teachers, and her teachers speak highly of her.

The Kamehameha Schools, named for the founder, Princess Pauahi Bishop, the last of the Kamehamehas, are maintained by her personal bequest of property.

The Boys' Manual Training School was organized and formally opened on Oct. 20 and Nov. 4, 1887, and the School for Girls was opened Dec. 19th, 1894, with Miss Ida M. Pope as principal.

On Sept. 11th, 1922, with President E. C. Webster there were sixty-two members of the faculty. Willard E. Givens, formerly principal of McKinley High School, is the new principal of the School for Boys, and Miss Abbie H. Newton—returned after a year's absence spent in traveling in the United States and Europe—is principal of the Girls' School. Miss Alice E. Knapp, for 26 years principal of the Preparatory School for boys, returned from two years of absence, becoming House Mother at the School for Girls. Miss Frances Lemon, after 25 years service as teacher, two years of which time she was acting principal, also returned as House Mother. Through the addition of these "house mothers" a readjustment of the house-work and cooking has been effected,—so that each girl receives cooking instruction on a family scale. The work in sewing and dress-making has been combined, so that each girl in school enrolls for a thorough schedule of sewing instruction,—enough for her needs in her own home.

In the Boys' School, also, the 11th, or High School Sophomore Class, has been added, and the 6th grade dropped into the Preparatory Dept., which in turn drops its receiving class. A new shop has been provided for automobile and gas-engine work, and there will be a full shop training course in this, as in the forge, carpentry, electricity and machine shops. Each boy will choose the special course he wishes to take, and then give three or four half days a week to this work for three or four years. A new course in sugar-cane culture has been started also this year in the Agricultural Department.

The Territorial Normal School, begun in 1895, was gradually built up for twenty-five years under the able and unwearied devotion of Principal Edgar Wood.

This, the second year under the new principal, B. O. Wist, has been a prosperous one. The acquiring of the "Woman's Dormitory," formerly the Theodore Richards home, has been a good investment; the children's room, with children's books, added to the Normal School library, has been a valued asset; the formation of an Alumni Association with Miss Ruth Shaw as Secretary, is a move in the right direction.

There were 110 graduates from the Normal School last June and most of them have positions in the schools this year.

The Summer School, held at the Normal School building last summer under the leadership of our Cousin, William McCluskey, was very popular. The topics studied were; "Primary Methods," "Hawaiian Weaving," "Grammar Grade Methods," "Physical Training," Educational Measurements," "Domestic Arts," "Applied Agriculture," "Local School Administration," "Music," "Girl Scouts," "Kindergarten Course" and "Mechanical Arts;" with a popular lecture at 11 o'clock every day by some prominent speaker.

The McKinley High School, on Victoria and Beretania Streets, was built and occupied in 1909, though the school previously occupied Queen Ruth's palace. The New McKinley High building on King St., is progressing finely. Of solid, durable concrete, the first unit, containing 16 class rooms, is about completed. Another of like size is now being built, and some day a large main structure will be erected between the two. The Hilo High School was opened in 1905, the High School on Maui in 1913 and the Kauai High in 1914.

The University of Hawaii. On Jan. 22, 1912, the cornerstone of the first building of the College of Hawaii was laid on a chosen spot of the 90 acres of land secured in Manoa Valley, and in June 3rd of that year the first class of four students was graduated, taking the first academic degree received on these islands. Constant and rapid advance along every line has followed.

The University of Hawaii is now occupying its new Science Building, and the Women's Dormitory is quite a convenience for women teachers and pupils. To the regular curriculum have been added courses in American literature, public speaking, technical business English, and new courses in commerce, including banking, insurance and advanced accounting. The course in sugar technology is very popular.

There are 45 members in the faculty and the enrollment this year is 701. Many graduates from the island High Schools are entering the University of Hawaii in preference to going abroad.

Absent Cousins will be interested to hear of some of the more recent schools.

The School for Nurses, under the care of the Queen's Hospital, has been fully accredited, and graduates who successfully pass examinations are entitled to write R. N. (registered nurse) after their name. The course requires three full years of training and is of the same high standard as is found in similar schools on the mainland.

The school was organized in 1915, but it has lately been enlarged,—new instructors have been secured, more rooms added and everything put on a higher basis.

The Academy of Design, under the direction of Gordon Usborne, is held in its studio near the Civic Center. Instruction is given in "Out-of-Doors Painting," by D. Howard Hitchcock, in "Drawing and Painting," by James Wilder, in "Modeling," by Gordon Usborne, and in "History of Art," by James Kieb. There have been several exhibits during the year by visiting as well as by local artists.

School for Deaf and Blind. This was started in 1914, with two deaf, two blind and three mentally defective children. They were taught bead work, basketry, hammock making and chair caning.

The mentally defective were later sent to a school at Waimano, Ewa, and the temporary quarters of the school were exchanged for about five acres of land at Waikiki—the Cecil Brown estate. The school has heretofore been a day school, but the legislature of 1922 appropriated enough money to build a dormitory for 25 boys and another for as many girls, with a maintenance fund for salaries, etc., so that the handicapped on other islands may also be provided for.

The Territorial Trade School is situated back of Kaiulani School and "consists of six roomy, well-lighted buildings, well equipped for furnishing free education to qualifed applicants in mechanical trades."

The school was established in 1919 and the enrollment has doubled each year until there are now 112 students. Kenneth E. Bryan, Territorial Industrial Supervisor, is principal.

Instruction is given in carpentry, machine-shop and auto repairing, and now, because of the popularity of radio telephony, the school has offered to make radio sets for sale to other schools at cost. The houses have been built mostly by the boys, and the benches made by them. The library contains books and trade magazines, and there is a lecture room fitted for moving pictures to illustrate the work.

Besides these there are the Y. M. C. A. night schools, International Y. M. C. A. Trade Schools, and Y. W. C. A. classes. The Episcopalians have their Girls' Priory, Iolani College and the Military School, all in a prosperous condition, and the Catholics have their St. Louis College—for which they are putting up new buildings—and their "Sisters of the Sacred Heart" for Catholic girls.

There are many private kindergartens and primary schools that we have not space even to mention—all showing how the cause of education has advanced by leaps and bounds.

THE ROLL-CALL OF COUSINS.

The total number of living members of the Cousins' Society in 1921 was 1170, and although during the following year there was quite a list of new members, the number remained the same, 1170. We are hoping to have a gain this year.

Last year our Roll-call reached out and embraced absent families, giving, approximately, the number of living descendants in each of the original families. Who will suggest a way of keeping up this absentee roll-call? Shall we count that one as present at the Annual Meeting who writes a letter during the year to the Society or to some officer of the Society? The subject is open to suggestion. This is only one.

Alexander (W. P.).—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Alexander held a reception in their Manoa home in October, honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Dohrman, parents of De Witt Alexander's wife, then spending the winter in Honolulu.—Miss Mary Charlotte Alexander is leaving France in March, to visit her sister Agnes in Japan before returning to Honolulu.

In July, Dr. Edgar Alexander with his wife came from San Francisco to be guests of his brother, Frank A., on Kauai.—In November Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander returned from a short stay on the Coast.

Mr. Wallace M. Alexander, President of San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, also came in July, and with his optimism, his rare business leadership and his love for Hawaii, he seemed to inspire Honolulu men with hope, courage and energy. His daughter, Martha Barker Alexander, of Piedmont, visited her aunt, Mrs. John Waterhouse, and as Miss Patty Waterhouse was home on her vacation from Wellesley, we can easily imagine rare weeks spent together in that beautiful mountain home on Tantalus. Mr. Alexander came again in March for a month of business in Hawaii.

Andrews (L.).—Carl B. Andrews, Prof. of Civil Engineering at the University of Hawaii, has been devoting his spare time to writing certain papers along the line of his work, and the settling up of the affairs of his father, the late R. W. Andrews. Mrs. Carl has given of her rare executive ability to the College Club, the D. A. R., and other social functions.

The spirit of Robert W. Andrews seems still to pervade the office of the Old Mission House. He was Recorder there for so many years, and early and late was patiently tracing out the mission records, compiling the Big Books of genealogies, collecting photographs for his Picture-pillar, and gladly and patiently answering the many tourists who plied him with questions about the early days; and he seemed to have become a part of it all. Tourists used to carry away his picture in their photographs of the old house, his face was so like a benediction,—and the benediction rests like a halo upon the place even now.—Mrs. Andrews, as Secretary, still keeps the office open, and resides with her brother and sister at the old home, 707 Wyllie St. Her brother, Rev. B. T. Sheeley, is librarian of the Hawaiian Mission Children's or Carter Library, in the Chamberlain House.

Lorrin Andrews, Esq., is very enthusiastic over his new home at Los Angeles, a city with an invigorating climate, with a large and rapidly growing population and with business plentiful. He is pleasantly situated in the State Attorney General's office in connection with two very fine men and has quite a business. He has just been appointed special counsel for the State of California in a suit to construct a State Highway along the coast of California.

The following clipping is of interest: "Former residents of Hawaii now living in Los Angeles, have banded together under the name of "Hui o na ka Hawaii," in which organization Lorrin Andrews, former local attorney and politician, is president and "moving spirit." The name translated means "Club of Hawaii," but on Hawaiian authority the article "Ka" should be deleted. "The club has made its headquarters at the Indian Store, 621 South Hill St., where it is hoped all Hawaiian visitors to the southern city will call and register, according to a letter on file at the Hawaiian Tourist Bureau. The club started with a membership of 35. This society held its first meeting of the new year in the Angelus hotel, and over 100 former residents of Hawaii attended. President Lorrin Andrews presided, while Mrs. William Alanson Bryan was secretary of the meeting, at which a number of new members joined."—Lorrin Andrews, Jr., left Honolulu in June, after the commencement at the University of Hawaii, and went to Los Angeles. He is attending the Southern Branch of the University of California and is located at the Beta Sigma House, 1016 N. New Hampshire St. He misses Honolulu greatly but has been lucky in meeting nice people.—Mrs. William Andrews is living with her daughters in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Mary (Andrews) Nott is about to break up her lovely home in Oakland, as the home-keeper, Sarah, will be married in March and wishes her mother to accompany her to her new home at Long Beach in Southern California. Mrs. Nott will, however, visit for a time with her other children before making that her permanent home.

W. L. Hardy, still in the Real Estate business in Honolulu, gives us the news that D. William Dean is married again and living in Waco, Texas; and his mother, Margaret (Hardy) Dean, divides her time between his home and that of her daughter's family in Berkeley.

Andrews (S. L.).—An extract from the journal of Mrs. Seth L. Andrews may be found in the September number of The Friend, page 199. It is a thrilling account of the travels of Dr. Andrews and his family from Hilo to Waimea, Hawaii, Sept. 9-13, 1839. Read it—if you would know how truth may be stranger than fiction, and remember that the "little George, 17 months old," became the "beloved physician", whom some of us remember in Honolulu. His daughter, Miss Winifred P. Andrews, lives in Detroit, and a friend, writing of Dr. A. B. Lyons' family, says, "Their other daughter, Winifred Andrews, lives within two blocks of Dr. Lyons' home and is with them a great deal. She fills a position in the Detroit Public Library, a wonderfully beautiful building and well equipped."

Andrews (C. B.).—Dr. Lorrin A. Shepard was still in Aintab in January, 1923. But as one wrote from the Near East, "Things change here as fast as a movie reel. When the French evacuated Aintab a year ago, 3,000 Armenians remained in the city in spite of racial fear and economic boycott. Early in November, 1922, however, the Turkish National Government announced that all non-Moslems desiring to leave Turkey might do so freely for one month. Next day a severe anti-Armenian article appeared in the local Turkish paper. The same night the Armenian watchman of the main Christian district was murdered, and the following night a well-to-do Armenian was wounded and robbed in his home. The Armenians understood that they could not remain in safety and prepared to leave, thankful to escape, even in the inclement weather, with robberies, extortions and possible loss of life. By Dec. 10, only about 120 Armenians remained in Aintab, and they dared not show themselves on the streets. The Armenian schools were closed by government order. The Girls' Seminary and the College Preparatory closed for lack of pupils. The last services in the Protestant church were held Nov. 26, Dr. Caroline F. Hamilton leading in the morning and Dr. Lorrin Shepard in the afternoon.

Workers are showing God's grace in their spirits and lives, trusting Him for themselves, their work, their people, and eager to serve elsewhere as God guides.

Dr. Shepard and Mr. Ismay early told the Aintab governor that the Americans could not continue their medical and other work if their trained helpers went away. Such workers and their families, 80 individuals in all, including dispenser and nurses, were given permission to remain, and were promised safety. All are housed on the Hospital, Orphanage and Seminary compounds. The Americans now in Aintab are Dr. Lorrin Shepard, Dr. Caroline F. Hamilton, Miss Norton, Miss Trowbridge, Miss Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Isely and their baby daughter, and Mrs. Shepard and their two boys.

The station unanimously favor holding the ground. It will be more imperative than ever to keep the hospital running through the summer without a vacation. But this will not be possible unless Dr. Green arrives and unless a second trained nurse can be secured.

(Later)—"Clinics at the Hospital have been unprecedentedly large. March 16, Dr. Shepard saw personally 117 patients and Dr. Hamilton treated 31 women. Even when there was the old Christian population in Aintab, the Clinics at this season never were so large. Dr. Green and a second nurse are urgently needed."

We are very proud of our Dr. Lorrin Shepard—the worthy son of a noble father and of Fanny (Andrews) Shepard, Hawaiian born. —Dr. Shepard's cousin, Lorraine Andrews, and her mother are located at 1809 Euclid Ave., Berkeley, Calif.

Armstrong (R.).—Mrs. Millie Beckwith Hair is still brightening Maui with her presence and making a home for her youngest daughter, Doris, who attends the Maui High School. Ted Hair, the man of the house, is now a student at the Univ. of Hawaii. Dorothy is in business in Honolulu and living with Maui friends. Margaret Hair is a senior at Pomona College and expects to take a course in nursing when she finishes college.

Mrs. A. Archibald Bullock (Ruth Beckwith Bullock) writes from Union Normal School, Wuchang, (Hankow), where she lives with her husband and children. She says, "This is a union of four denominations, two English and two American. Over fifty fine young men are training to be Christian teachers in mission day-schools for Central China—a most important work we believe. Only one or two other schools are devoting themselves to teacher-training in China among all the missions. Our oldest child, Burlingame, is at boarding-school in Kuling, our beautiful health resort where we all go every summer."

Matthew Armstrong and his wife Grace, who is the daughter of General Taylor of the Boston Globe, with Miss Bess Armstrong, their daughter, also Richard Armstrong and his wife, all of Hampton, Va., are due in Honolulu, June 19. They come to visit the birthplace of their father, William Nevins Armstrong, once editor of the Advertiser and Attorney General under Kalakaua.—Richard Armstrong was well known in foot-ball circles of past years as "The famous Yale half-back."

Again we thank Mrs. Margaret (Armstrong) Howe for so carefully giving the dates of the birth of the buds of her branch of the Armstrong tree.

B. R. Banning has been seriously ill for some months and his relatives are greatly troubled about the outcome of his condition. . . . Since the above was written Mr. Banning passed "over the river" on April 27 and his ashes were taken to Oakland, where the body of his beautiful mother was laid to rest.

Mrs. Ellen A. Weaver is pleasantly situated in Honolulu, at the Courtland Hotel, just across the street from the new Central Union Church, now building.—Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Weaver are living in Wailuku, Maui. Mr. Weaver took a trip to the Coast in the summer to see his daughters, and then went on a camping expedition with the girls.—Miss Mary Weaver will graduate in June at the Univ. of California and take her degree of B.S. but talks of remaining another year to secure her Master's degree.—Miss Ida will return in June.

Bailey (E.).—We are daily expecting a letter that will tell of the Bailey doings in the past year.

Baldwin (D.).—Mrs. Lois Baldwin (Mrs. David Dwight), though feeble, is bravely holding her own.—A late letter from Mrs. Lilian (Baldwin) Atwater says, "Mother has been quite ill since Christmas. Is still in the care of a trained nurse but slowly improving every day. Is able to sit up most of the day now. We are so thankful she is so much better."—A very pretty wedding occurred in the family of Erdman D. Baldwin, when the only daughter, Jessie Curtis Baldwin, entered a bower of orchids and ferns, to the march played on violin and piano, and there with plighted vows became the bride of Lieutenant William Harvey Hill. Four generations of Baldwins were present; her grandmother, Mrs. Lois Baldwin, her father and mother, and her only brother and his little son. Some of the dearest of her score of friends also witnessed the ceremony. Mrs. Erdman Baldwin has returned to Wailuku, where her husband is doing surveying for the Wailuku Sugar Company.—Mrs. L. M. Baldwin accompanied her sons Arthur and Ralph to the mainland, where they entered school. In Anaheim, Calif., she found a little grandson, the child of her daughter, Edith, Mrs. Kenneth M. Smith, and there she remains for a time.—Another wedding in the D. D. Baldwin family was that of Miss Winifred Weddick, at Wailuku, Maui, on Nov. 25, to Douglas Frank Brewster, of London and Maui. Some of the guests, friends of the groom, came from Australia to attend the wedding.—And the wedding bells continued to ring, for on Nov. 11th Winifred's cousin, Lois Bell Murdock, became the bride of Sherman Barret Hall. The ceremony took place in the beautiful Baldwin Memorial Church at Makawao, all abloom with gay flowers and lacy ferns. The ushers led the way to the altar and the little brother and sister scattered rose petals along the way. There were bridesmaids and a matron of honor, and the charming young bride leaning on the arm of her father, carrying orchids and roses. About 200 guests partook of the delicious wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.—Walter Baldwin Murdock, brother of the bride, is a senior student at the Boston School of Technology and will be graduated in June. His engagement to Miss Elizabeth Robinson, of Boston, has just been announced.

Mrs. Emily A. Baldwin, (widow of the late H. P. Baldwin), is looking remarkably fresh and well.—In July Delegate and Mrs. Harry A. Baldwin returned after several months spent in Washington, D. C. They were accompanied by their daughter Frances, who was graduated from Dana Hall, Wellesley, in June. The Baldwins celebrated their silver wedding while here, having been married July 19, 1897. Delegate Baldwin returned to Washington for the short session, and Miss Frances has entered the finishing school, Pine Manor.—Mr. F. F. Baldwin and H. A. Baldwin sold the island of Lanai to the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. for $1,100,000 and the former has bought the Raymond cattle ranch at Ulupalakua, Maui, for $625,000.—Mrs. Frank Baldwin was unanimously re-elected commissioner of the Maui council of Girl Scouts.—Edward H. K. Baldwin, son of F. F. Baldwin, is at the Univ. of Virginia.—Mrs. W. D. Baldwin returned from the Coast in June with her two daughters, Charlotte and Virginia, who returned in September to the "School for Girls" at Santa Barbara, Calif. Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin went to the mainland in September, where they spent some months.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Baldwin made a trip to the Orient in the summer and returned.

Bingham (H.).—Edwin Moseley, Prof. of Science at Bowling Green, Ohio, Normal School, visited his sister, Mrs. Clara B. Moseley Sutherland, in Honolulu during July and August.

In March, 1923, Mrs. Sutherland presented to the Society photographs of her mother, and her three aunts, and her uncle, all of which have been placed, a complete Bingham group, in the picture-pillar. Mrs. Sutherland has kindly put us in touch with several members of the Bingham family.—Louis LaRue Sutherland, her son, and Miss Anna Robson, were married Feb. 15th, in Honolulu.—Mr. and Mrs. Ideler and baby, Juliette, are in New York, where they occupy a delightful apartment full of sunshine. "The studio has a big fireplace, a baby-grand piano, a beautiful piano lamp and a big, wide couch with plumped pillows ready for lounging." So writes Miss Kate Reynolds, who drops in for a meal or a night to see "the darling baby, a little beauty," to hear Mr. and Mrs. Ideler practice, and to get bits of Honolulu news.—Miss Reynolds is teaching in a school in Hackettstown, N. J., where she taught before she came to Honolulu. The work is very light, the salary good, with privilege of going to New York for a day or week-end every week.

Prof. Hiram Bingham of Yale University is now Lieut. Governor of Connecticut. His boys are all in school but Jonathan. Prof. Bingham has presented Punahou School with a picture of the ancient Inca city of Manchu Picchu, which was discovered in 1911 in an expedition under his leadership.

Bishop (A.).—Mrs. Della Bishop Shaw belongs to that large class of housewives that has been so enthusiastically interested in dressmaking and millinery as taught by Mrs. Dahl, assistant professor of Textiles and Design in the Univ. of Hawaii. Mrs. Shaw is one who cannot hoard her accomplishments and so has crowned the heads of some of the older Cousins with her skill; like Mrs. Dr. Judd, in 1828, who upon her arrival in Hawaii retrimmed the mission bonnets, to "help the worn mission women forget the near tragedies through which they had passed and smile again."—Miss Ruth Shaw went last summer to Boston as a delegate to the Teachers' Convention, was at Chautauqua, and visited friends in the Eastern States before returning home. Miss Ruth has been appointed secretary of the Normal School Alumni Association.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fisher, (Jessie Shaw), and son took a trip to Minneapolis, visiting relatives, and returned by automobile by way of the Yellowstone and Grand Parks and Seattle. Since then Mr. Fisher, assisted by his wife, has been designing some new buildings in Manoa Valley.—Miss Margaret Shaw received her Master's Degree last summer at the Chicago University, and is again back at Vassar.

Bond (E.).—Mrs. Ellen Bond Bicknell, eldest child of the missionary Bonds, passed quietly to the better land on Aug. 3rd after a short illness. We miss her dainty presence at church and at the Old Mission Home, for it was she, with her rare memory for events and dates, who always brought the family news for the roll-call. She had a great desire, before she left, to see her son William, and, as if in answer to her call, he too slipped away about five months later. Apparently in excellent health and in the prime of young manhood, he is greatly mourned by his family and those who knew him.—Mrs. Bicknell's son Joseph has his home and family in Milwaukee, Wis., and Dr. Henry Bicknell and wife were away on a prolonged stay of some months on the mainland, attending the 25th anniversary of the graduation of his class at Oberlin. The oldest son, James, the Auditor, and her youngest son, Robert, were with their mother in her last sickness as were her daughters, Mrs. Ellen O'Brien and Mrs. Annie Storey. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien spent the summer in their brother Henry's house in Manoa and have since bought a home on Alewa Heights, which is becoming one of the beautiful hillside residence districts of Honolulu. Doreen Bicknell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bicknell, has been a prize piano performer at some of the Punahou contests.

Mr. Howell Bond, son of Dr. and Mrs. B. D. Bond, is in the employ of the Bishop Trust Company, and with his wife has lately moved to his own home in Manoa.—Kenneth Bond has just accepted a position with the Hilo Sugar Co., while his brother Douglas has been for some time with the Ewa Plantation, Oahu. Both are sugar men.—Miss Carrie Bond has kindly furnished one of our life sketches.

Castle (S. N.).—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snow spent the summer months at San Jose, California. Mrs. Mabel Schoen, also, and some of her children, spent the vacation in California, Mrs. Schoen accompanying her daughter Evelyn to Boston, where the latter is taking a course in nurse's training.

Mr. and Mrs. Marks with their children have joined the sister, Miss Ethelwyn, in a home in Kaimuki, where they found the climate very beneficial.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Castle and son returned in the fall to New York after a delightful visit of ten months.

W. R. Castle, after being for forty-one years a trustee of Punahou School, resigned last summer, and his son, A. L. Castle, was appointed to take his place. W. R. Castle, Jr., and family, after spending several months in Europe have now returned to their home in Washington, D. C.—Miss Rosamund Castle is to be a bride in the merry month of May.

Mrs. G. P. Castle's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Tenney, aged 86, died recently at Waikiki, having been long a resident of Honolulu.—Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Tozzer, with their two little girls, Anne and Joan, are expecting to visit their parents at Waikiki this summer. Dr. Tozzer is Prof. of Archaeology at Harvard University.

Mrs. James B. Castle returned to Hawaii in June and is very happy in her Waikiki home.—Harold Castle, having completed his country home on the shore of Kaneohe Bay, spends much of his time on the ranch now, and the wife and children go out for week-ends.

Mr. Westervelt and Andrew, with his friend Orlando Lyman, motored in California during the summer, while Mrs. Westervelt spent the time with the Snows in San Jose.

Henry Mead and wife and two children, George Whitaker and Cynthia Tufts, spent the summer on Pacific Heights with Mrs. H. C. Coleman, as also did their parents, Prof. George and Helen Mead. They are planning to return this year.

Elinor and John Nef are doing post-graduate work in economics at a university in London, England. They spent their midwinter month holiday in Lausanne, where they were asked to join the Press Representatives in reporting the Lausanne Conference for a syndicate of American papers.

Miss Beatrice Castle returned to Hawaii in October after a stay of some months on the mainland. Miss Castle was elected Pres. of the Outdoor Circle in May, and has filled the office so efficiently she has just been re-elected. She has also been appointed on the House and Grounds committee of the H. M. C. Society.

"An interesting incident of the maiden cruise of the new Inter-Island steamer Haleakala to Molokai, Maui and Hawaii on March 24 was the fact that W. R. Castle, kamaaina of Honolulu, was one of the early patrons of the company, having been a passenger on the James Makee, a diminutive steam vessel, away back in the 70's, and then considered a very fine boat. He says he has sailed on practically every vessel of the Inter-Island fleet and also on those of the old Wilder fleet, and may be regarded as the veteran patron. On the Haleakala cruise were three generations of Castles, including W. R. Castle, A. L. Castle, his son, and A. L. Castle, Jr."

Chamberlain (L.).—W. W. Chamberlain fell very naturally into his place as head of the Cousins' Society during the absence of President and Vice-President abroad.—Mrs. Chamberlain entertained in August for many guests at a very pretty luncheon at the Moana Hotel, when lovely spring flowers were the decorations.—Warren Chamberlain is a Sophomore at Punahou, his sister Clio is a Freshman and Allethea is in the 4th grade.

Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Chamberlain are on Aloha Farm, near Hastings, Mich.—Mrs. Helen Chamberlain Ives spent some months on the Islands, visiting relatives at Makawao, Maui, and Hilo, Hawaii, as well as her brother, W. W. Chamberlain, and her cousins in Honolulu. She returned in September to her home and children in Illinois. —On Jan. 16th a little son was born to Dr. and Mrs. Warren C. Ives and given the name of his grandfather and of his father's brother, Charles Gustin Ives.

Mr. Worth O. Aiken is manager of the Huelo Pineapple Co. on Maui, and Mrs. Aiken is prominent in the society affairs of Maui. Mrs. Aiken's mother, Mrs. James Chamberlain, is visiting her daughter but plans to leave early in April. On the evening of March 21 Mrs. Aiken entertained at dinner for her mother-in-law, Mrs. Aiken, Sr., this being her birthday anniversary. The following day, March 22, she entertained about fifty guests for tea, in honor of the birthday of her mother, Mrs. James Chamberlain.

Clark (E. W.).—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Scott, (Emma Clark Scott, daughter of the late Alvah Clark), live on Kecaumoku St., Honolulu, and with them are their daughter, Mrs. Margaret (Scott) Hughes and her two children. Mrs. Hughes is President of the Women's Society of Central Union Church.

Rev. A. S. Baker, M.D., in charge of Kalihi Union Church, with his wife, Harriet (Austin) Baker, and their daughter Ruth, spent their summer vacation at Hauula, Oahu.—Herbert Ashford R. Austin, 1st Assistant City and County Engineer, with wife and daughter returned in August from a visit to the Coast. On Dec. 2 a bouncing boy, Donald Stafford, was welcomed into this family. Ashford Austin was elected president of the local Cornell club for the year.—Margaret Austin, youngest daughter of H. C. Austin, accepted a position as stenographer in the Consolidated R. R. Co., that she might be near enough to keep house for her brother Stafford, who was section luna at Amauula, near Hilo. Then Stafford became engaged and was married, Feb. 27, to Dorothy Ellen Winter. The wedding was a lovely one, at the home of the bride's mother, in Honolulu; the wedding party returning to Hilo, where they make their home.—Marion Austin Horner, with her husband and four little children, lives in Hilo.

Ernest B. Clark, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and family are in their health-giving, breezy home on the beach at Kahala. They expect to leave for their vacation on the Coast in June, taking their auto with them.—Montgomery Clark spent the summer vacation in California, and is now a student at the Univ. of Hawaii.—Miss Helen Severance went with her cousins, the Parke sisters, in April, on an extended trip through Europe, keenly alert and heartily enjoying all she saw. She returned in November to her own home in Hilo, taking her friends, the Deyo sisters, into her household.

Albert B. Clark is Assistant Cashier in the Bank of Hawaii, and lives with his sister, Mrs. Caroline (Clark) Balding, her daughter Caroline and two sons, William Thomas and Albert. Thomas is at Punahou.

Conde (D. T.).—A late but welcome letter was received from Mrs. Lucy Lee Conde King, of 528 N. Main St., Rockford, Ill. She tells of the death of her sister, Pauline Wright Conde, in Chicago, July 6, 1922; also of the birth and death of her own little grandchild. She has two living grandchildren, Ralph Waldo Elden and Lucy Elizabeth Elden, living in Portland, Oregon. There are two deceased.—Henry Conde has 2 sons and 1 grandson, Lyman B. Conde. This makes 3 living of the 4th generation of Condes.

Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Conde have 10 grandchildren living (3 deceased). Samuel Conde has 3 daughters, Susan Conde Dickson 2 daughters, Henry T. Conde 2 sons, Lucy Conde King 2 daughters and 1 son. This makes 4 of the 2nd generation, 10 of the 3rd and 3 of the 4th; 17 living descendants in all, of Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Conde.

Miss Bertha Conde, we hear, is in New York City and her sisters still in California, all very busy in Y. W. C. A. work. We are happy to say that Mrs. King will keep us informed as to any changes in the Conde family.

Cooke (A. S.).—Mrs. J. P. Cooke and Miss Emily spent the springtime last year at the Coast, and in March of this year set their faces westward toward the Orient. One of the sons from Yale spent his summer vacation in Honolulu.

William Gardner Cooke and wife have been visiting Mrs. J. P. Cooke. They left for their home in New Jersey in March. Mr. Cooke made his wife a member of the Cousins' Society while here. They have three children. Elizabeth is nineteen years old, Virginia eighteen, and W. G., Jr., thirteen. Virginia is a freshman at Bryn Mawr, while Elizabeth is more interested in Art, and hopes to specialize in Interior Decorating. Billy's activities center at present mostly in Radio.

In the Atherton household, one wedding has occurred, that of J. Atherton Richards and Mrs. Marcia Davenport, of Plymouth, Mass. They were married Aug. 14th, in New York City. They visited on the mainland on their bridal trip, and spent some weeks on the Hawaiian Islands, Mr. Atherton's boyhood home.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Midkiff spent three or four months on the mainland. —Herbert Richards has entered Wesleyan College,—where he is called "Fiji." Sixty years ago some of the Sandwich Island college boys were called "Cannibals."—Mrs. Jack Guard was among those who entertained the returning relatives—Richards and Midkiffs—in the summer.—Mrs. Guard's mother, Mrs. C. H. Atherton, was one of the first this year to begin the annual migrations of the Cousins to the mainland.—Mr. F. C. Atherton, Vice-President and Assistant Manager of Castle and Cooke, with his family, spent the vacation of 1922 at the volcano, Kilauea. Miss Marjory Atherton was one of the four prize winners at the Music Memory Contest. She also, with Polly Richards, played in the November entertainment given by the Morning Music Club. Marjory was elected treasurer of the Hui Eleu.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Montague Cooke were in the East when the school-year closed, and came back with their son and daughter to the home land. Here their vacation was spent in "shelling" with their father, and in all kinds of Hawaiian recreations. For Christmas vacation, Mrs. Cooke, with her daughter Caroline and three of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooke, Martha, Anna and Clarence Jr., and Dermont Stanley, held a house party at Woodstock, Vt. Caroline is at Shipley Girls' School.

Mrs. Clarence and Mrs. Theodore Cooke, when in N. Y. City, entertained for the week-end Harold Erdman, from Lawrenceville, N. J., and Clarence Cooke, Jr.—C. H. Cooke, President of Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, at present Speaker of the House of Representatives, with his family found the island of Molokai a pleasant land for a restful vacation. Mrs. Cooke accompanied her children in September to the mainland, where Miss Anna entered the finishing school, Pine Manor. Miss Martha returned to Bryn Mawr and Clarence H. Cooke, Jr., entered school at Bridgeport, Conn.—Richard A. Cooke, manager of C. Brewer & Co., spent some time last summer visiting plantations on Hawaii and Molokai. His daughter, Anna Karen, was an honor pupil in the 7th grade at Punahou.—Mrs. Theodore Cooke was a Coast visitor in the autumn, returning with Mrs. C. H. Cooke.—Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Spalding are listed among passengers returning from the States in June, and again we find Mrs. Spalding bound for the Coast in December.—Mrs. G. P. Cooke was also a Coast visitor. Mrs. Cooke often joins her children in musical entertainments. Mr. Cooke has given much time to the Rehabilitation movement.

Mr. A. F. Cooke has been having published in The Friend, extracts from his father's journal,—incidents so different from today's news as to seem almost mythical.—Miss Margaret Cooke, daughter of A. F. Cooke, is giving lessons in Corrective and Individual Health Gymnastics.

Damon (S. C.).—Miss May Damon, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Damon, of Moanalua, made a short trip to Japan in the autumn, returning with Mrs. Philip Dodge in November.—Mrs. Henry Damon entertained in January for Mrs. S. G. Wilder, who was leaving for Europe. Her son, Renny Damon, is in Scotland, taking a special course in banking.

Miss Ethel Damon, our honored President, spent about eight months on the mainland—attending the National Educational Association in Boston and the Convention of Women's Clubs at Chautauqua, making a visit to Wellesley and other interesting places, motoring all about New England and finding cool, restful places on the Atlantic Coast. Then, homeward turning, across land and sea like a cool, refreshing breeze from the north-land she blew, scattering ozone and good cheer in all the wake of her journey.—Mrs. Julie (Damon) Giffard has been a Captain of Girl Scouts and a valued leader in that uplifting organization. Just now she is on the Coast with her little son.

Our late Cousin, Mr. F. W. Damon, is being honored in far-away China by scores of his former pupils at Mills School. The committee thus honoring him is made up of men who have risen to high positions in their native land—many of them in Shanghai—and the fund they have collected exceeds $40,000. The glowing letter conveying memorial plans was sent to Mrs. Damon in November, and they have been corresponding with her as to the form the memorial will take.—Mrs. Mary Happer Damon, (Mrs. F. W.), is a member of the Chinese Department of the Hawaiian Board of Missions, and in January was one of the speakers at the Nuuanu Y. M. C. A., at the Chinese Young Men's Supper Club. Mrs. Damon speaks the Chinese language fluently, having learned it as a child at Canton.—Dr. Putman and his wife, Violet Damon Putman, returned from a European trip early in 1923.--Cyril F. Damon was elected a member of the Board of Trustees of Oahu College, being a representative of the third generation to fill that position.—Miss Vera Damon is one of the George R. Carter party traveling in Europe and spending some of the winter months in Paris. Miss Daphne, after a two years' stay in Europe, is now at home.

Dibble (S.).—Mrs. Grace P. Haven, of Maunaolu, with Miss May E. Nance, the Principal, spent the month of August at the volcano of Kilauea, on Hawaii. They there gained pep and vigor for the strenuous duties of another year. One of the Maunaolu girls writes, "Mrs. Haven has charge of the seventh and eighth grades, and she has her hands full teaching us all the studies in each grade.

Dimond (H.).—Mrs. Lucy Dimond Ross, of Manoa, is one of our new members and is greatly interested in the Society. She has three sons, Roderick Dimond Ross, Earl Rideau Ross, and William George Ross. She brings information of the death of her mother, Mrs. Carrie (Dimond) McIntosh Gray, of Isle of Pines, Cuba, but no date and no particulars.—Mrs. Ross's half brother, William Henry Dimond, is said to be unusually bright intellectually, having entered the University of California at the age of sixteen years and graduated at twenty. He has been taken into the firm of Williams, Dimond and Co., San Francisco.

Herbert Sessions Wells, son of Mildred Kinney Wells, married on June 6, 1922, Miss Lois B. Lyon, daughter of William T. Lyon, of Berkeley. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rowland B. Dodge, friend of both families. The bride is a graduate of the University of California, and Mr. Wells of Stanford. Both were medical students at Stanford. The marriage is the sequel to a friendship begun during the war, when Miss Lyon was at the base hospital at Camp Fremont as bacteriologist, and Mr. Wells was in the medical department. They expected, after the honeymoon at Yosemite, to finish their education at Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

Mrs. Anna Kinney Hobron has her little granddaughter, Cornelia Hall Jones, with her in Berkeley.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Waterhouse, with their two children, Julia and Albert, spent some time at the Coast, returning in November. They are now residing at the Peninsula, Pearl City.—Mrs. Henry Waterhouse was hostess at a buffet luncheon in November. Mrs. Waterhouse has never lost her interest in the Hawaiian women she taught at Kamehameha Schools years ago.—Her daughter, Miss Nora Sturgeon, is doing good work in the Y. W. C. A. in the Hawaiian Clubs.

Dole (D.).—On Aug. 9th, Judge S. B. Dole donated an oil painting of his step-mother, Mrs. Charlotte Close (Knapp) Dole. At present this picture is in the H. M. C. S. office, but it will be hung in the old frame building with those of the other missionaries.

Dr. Emily C. Dole is one of our Board of Managers this year. Recently she brought into the office a little sheaf of very interesting Dole items. Walter S. Dole writes from Tucson, Ariz., giving his address as Tucson Gas, Elec. Lt. & P. Co., Tucson, Arizona. He has circulated, he says, most of the time since writing, between Trinidad, Albuquerque and Tucson but as soon as he can conveniently leave the work he is due to go East as far as Springfield, and perhaps to St. Johns, New Brunswick. He sends a yearly installment on the life-membership of his four children. Richard W. Dole, son of Walter S. Dole, graduated from Annapolis last year, and is now cruising on the battleship Tennessee.—Dr. Kenneth and Anna Van Winkle Dole were gladdened on June 26, 1922, by the arrival of a little daughter, Margaret, at Redlands, California.—The youngest son of George H. Dole. Elwyn Hathaway, is engaged to Miss Alice R. Olson, and the day of the wedding is set for August 14, 1923.—Charles S. Dole, homesteader at Kapaa, near the old George H. Dole place, and Dr. Emily Dole, osteopathic physician residing at 1524 Emma St., Honolulu, are the only ones left on the Islands, of the George H. Dole's "lucky thirteen" children.

Dwight (S. G.).—Mrs. Bernice Dwight Spitz, (Mrs. C. W.), is secretary of the Daughters of Hawaii. She and her small son spent a few of the summer weeks at the Volcano, Kilauea.—Mrs. A. K. Smythe, (Ellen Dwight Smythe) is clerk of the Court of Domestic Relations.—Charles S. Dwight, secretary to Delegate Kuhio last year, remained at Washington after the death of the Prince and was practically in charge of the business of Hawaii at the Capitol until Delegate Baldwin's arrival, when he continued his duties. In the meantime Mr. Dwight successfully passed his law examinations and was admitted to practice in the District of Columbia. He also took up some special courses of law as post graduate work. On March 27th he arrived with his bride, Miss Olive Henry, of Easton, Md., and received an enthusiastic welcome home. He will join the law firm of Thompson, Cathcart and Ulrich.

Emerson (J. S.).—Mrs. N. B. Emerson remains in Honolulu, and her son, Arthur W. Emerson, the artist, has returned from New York and opened a studio in Honolulu.

Dr. Justin E. Emerson is an inmate of Clifton Springs Sanitarium, his health being in a critical condition. Mrs. Emerson's health is improving and she reports herself as being better than she has been for years. Their third son, Ralf Pomeroy, is married.

Rev. Oliver P. Emerson and his wife were well at last accounts. Though they send but few letters here, they think of their friends and former home with great affection.

The Joseph S. Emersons have had an exceedingly happy year, having had their son, Oliver Hudleston, with them since last June when he was graduated from Harvard. He has spent this year usefully as instructor in biology at McKinley High and working at medical chemistry at the Queen's Hospital. At the conclusion of the school year, instead of taking up his post-graduate studies as planned, he will join the scientific workers at Kilauea Volcano.

Since the above was written we have received notice of the death, on April 8, of Dr. Justin Emerson, at Clifton Springs, N. Y.

We would also notice the interesting exhibition of oil paintings and water color sketches, held by Arthur W. Emerson at the Roof Garden of the Young Hotel, April 13-26.

Forbes (C.).—William J. Forbes, Treasurer of the J. B. Atherton Estate, with his wife and three daughters, spent the summer at the Peninsula at Pearl Harbor.—Frederick, their second son, having just graduated from Punahou Academy, left last fall for the mainland to enter Oberlin College, at Oberlin, Ohio.—Theodore, older brother of Frederick, has just completed his sophomore year there and met Frederick at Chicago, going from there to Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, for the summer. Here they exchanged their skill in brain and brawn work for money that will help pave their way through college, the change meanwhile giving them rest from study and experience in practical life.—Marion Forbes has appeared in a number of public musical club recitals, and was one of four Punahou girls who received a prize at the musical memory contest for perfect score.—Marion is a senior at Punahou this year, and after graduation in June will join her brothers at Oberlin.—Frances Forbes has been commended for high scholarship at Punahou.—Mrs. Forbes, their mother, is head of the Junior Department at Central Union Bible school. She is also one of the members of the Hawaiian Board of Missions and a deaconess of Central Union Church.

Misses Maria and Harriet Forbes entertained their cousin, Mrs. Helen Chamberlain Ives, during part of her stay in Honolulu, and Miss Harriet accompanied her to Maui and Hilo in vacation, while Miss Maria rested at the Peninsula.

Green (J. S.).—Miss Laura Green is still gathering and writing up Hawaiian folklore for Miss Martha Beckwith.—Her nephew, Franklin C. Green, who moved from Portland to Astoria about three years ago, lost all his business in the Astoria Electric Co. in the great fire. But he writes brave, plucky letters and says, while it will take two years to make up the loss, he is very optimistic as to the outcome. He and Mrs. Green are both enthusiastic church workers, Mrs. Green helping in the choir and in Y. W. C. A. activities also.—Walter Green, wife and two boys are still at Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. J. P. Green was on the sick list for quite a time at her home on Judd Street, suffering from sciatica. Then her sister, Miss Mary Parker, became ill and was persuaded to "come over for company," and together they occupied a large, quiet, airy upper room, open to the trade wind and the morning sun. And best of all, they had the devoted, efficient care of the daughters of the household. But the skill and endurance of the head nurse, Mrs. May (Green) Wilcox, was greatly taxed when her brother, Henry Green, had a relapse from an attack of "flu," and two trained nurses were added. Mr. Green improved after a time and was sent to a sanitarium on the Coast. Here he is gaining. His mother, too, is better.—Miss Carrie Green was a delegate in June to the meeting of the National Library Association in Detroit, Mich., which she enjoyed very much. Miss Carrie is still Reference Librarian at the public library, a position that requires an exact and resourceful mind, an excellent memory and great patience.—Wade Warren Thayer has been in charge of a troop of Boy Scouts for many years. He is also Commissioner for the local council of "Boy Scouts of America," to which position he has recently been unanimously re-elected. Mrs. Thayer continues to be President of the Humane Society; and in connection with it the Thrift Shop, held in "The Old Schoolhouse," has been a decided success. Mrs. Thayer is also one of the commission in charge of the Home for Feeble-Minded. She has likewise been greatly interested in the Shriners' work for crippled children, and has been instrumental in placing many children under their care.

Gulick (P. J.).—The passing of William H. Gulick on April 14, 1922, was mentioned and his photograph inserted in the last Annual Report, but this is the place for the record of his long and useful life; and it may be found on another page.

Mrs. Cyrus A. Clark, daughter of Luther Halsey Gulick, died on Oct. 22, 1922, at the home of her son, Edward Clark, in Shanghai, China, where she had gone with her brother, Sidney L. Gulick, for her health.—The wife of her son, Grover Clark, passed through Honolulu in June on her way from the Orient to see her mother in the States.—Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, en route to Japan from San Francisco, spent a few hours in Honolulu on Sept. 12, and was tendered a reception at the Nuuanu Y. M. C. A. by the Interchurch Federation. As Secretary of the Commission on International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, he is putting forth every effort to establish peace. The topic for his address was "A Christian Program for a Warless World." Dr. Gulick has written a book bearing a similar title. He is expected to pass through Honolulu again in April or May.

Mrs. Louise Gulick Whitaker, daughter of Dr. John T. Gulick, with her husband, Rev. R. B. Whitaker, and their four children, are at Lintsing, China, now. A story comes to us of a wee, starved, deserted girl baby, brought to the mission in a dying condition and cared for by Mrs. Whitaker till help could be found.

Mrs. Eleanor Brooks Gulick, the death of whose husband, Walter Vose Gulick, M.D., was recorded last year, has a position this year as head of the English Department and Dean of the Women's Department of the Methodist College at Tacoma, Wash.

Rev. O. H. Gulick has been laid aside of late, but still keeps his interest in people and things.—Mrs. Gulick's 89th birthday anniversary came on Aug. 8th, and many friends called to tender congratulations or sent their tokens of love. Her time and strength have been so occupied in loving ministrations at home that the second chapter of her article about "The Mothers" has been postponed.

Miss Julia A. Gulick, Treasurer of the Japanese Children's Home, did the caretakers and children a good turn when she had about 20 of them occupying her Rest Cottage at Waialua. She also secured helpers for the youngest inmate of the home—a wee baby boy found on the veranda steps, whom they named "Moses Tamau So"—"Tamau" because he was a "gift from above." Miss Gulick finds time to keep in touch with her Japanese friends at Kakaako and to cheer and encourage Miss Robertson who has Miss Gulick's old position on the Woman's Board of Missions.

Since writing the above Dr. John T. Gulick passed away on the day and almost the hour of the Cousins' meeting.—Rev. Cyrus A. Clark, passing through from Japan, arrived in time to conduct the family services at the home. A beautiful public memorial service, conducted by the pastor, Dr. Albert W. Palmer, was held in the church on Monday, April 16, 1923.

Hall (E. O.).—Mr. E. O. White and wife are off on a year's trip, making a tour of the United States. We shall expect some special items of interest when they return.

Miss Charlotte Hall has charge of the accounts of T. V. King, agent for the Country Club and Treasurer of the California Feed Co.—Mr. Philip Hall has the Oakland agency for the Crabtree Tourist Bureau.—Mrs. Florence (Hall) Macintyre is greatly interested in "The new Education" and is one of the directors of the Hanahauoli School, founded by Mrs. Sophie Judd Cooke.

Mr. P. C. Jones, after an illness of only a few days, passed away on April 22, 1922, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ada (Jones) Gartley. The services were held at the cemetery at the quiet evening hour. This was his wish, and it was fitting,—as his sun had set, his work was done, the burdens of life were laid down, his benefactions had passed into the trusteeship of other hands, and he had passed on, calm and free, to meet the welcome of his Lord. —The Jones sisters, Mrs. Belle Jones, Mrs. Ada Gartley and Mrs. Alice Lewis, have recently been entertaining their cousins, the Misses Mabel and Jean Kenrick, of Newton, Mass.

Miss Helen Jones, eldest daughter of Mrs. Belle and the late Edwin A. Jones, was married, Oct. 5, at the home of her mother at Pearl Harbor Peninsula to R. J. Howard Farrar. It was an out-of-doors wedding, on the lawn facing the blue waters of the lagoon; and under a bower of beautiful hibiscus they plighted their vows, while Dr. Albert W. Palmer pronounced the solemn words that made them man and wife. Only a few weeks of visits, receptions and good-byes—and they left for their future home at El Paso, Texas. We miss our smiling, efficient Helen, the graceful athlete, teacher in the Life-saving service and the almost adored captain of a troop of girl scouts; and we congratulate Mr. Farrar on his securing this pearl of the sea—a jewel of rare value.—Mr. J. Howard and Margaret Jones Worrall have a little daughter, Martha, born in Honolulu, July 22, 1922.

Dr. and Mrs. Talmadge Wilson, (Eleanor Gartley), have moved from Upper Nuuanu Valley to the Naval Station at Pearl Harbor. Dr. Wilson as surgeon has joined the scientific expedition on the Tanager for the exploring of certain islands in the Pacific.—Richard and Alonzo Gartley, entertained for about 100 of their young island friends, in the Gartley summer home up Nuuanu Valley. With yellow lilies and banks of ferns, old schoolmates and childhood memories, it was a night to be remembered. They returned, July 17, Dick to the University of Virginia, where he had been elected a member of the Chi Phi fraternity, and Alonzo to Andover Academy.

Mrs. Alice (Jones) Lewis is a very valuable member of the Board of Industrial Schools. She, with her children, Marion, Dudley and Elizabeth, summered at the Volcano, Kilauea.

Hitchcock (H. R.).—In December, D. Howard Hitchcock left for Philadelphia to hang the four large pictures of island scenes he had been commisisoned to paint for the new inter-island steamer, Haleakala. He returned on the Haleakala on her maiden trip through the Panama Canal, arriving in Honolulu March 15, 1923. Whistles blew, and thousands of people gathered on the wharf to bid her welcome.—Mrs. Peggy (Campbell) Hitchcock, wife of Harvey, and daughter-in-law of D. Howard Hitchcock, is head of the Music Department of the Normal School.—Helen Hitchcock belongs to the Hui Eleu at Punahou, is a fine swimmer and an enthusiastic member of a troop of girl scouts.—Dickson H. spent his Christmas vacation here and remained on the Islands to work on a sugar plantation.

Mr. and Mrs. Snow, (Mary Hitchcock Snow), spent a few months in Honolulu at Waikiki.—Harriet Hitchcock and her mother have with them one of Mabel Schoen's children, and two children belonging to her brother Rexford Hitchcock's large family.—Mrs. Schoen, (Mabel Hitchcock), went back to the mainland to place her two sons, Frederick and Edward, in school and to accompany her daughter Evelyn to Boston, where she is taking a course in nurses' training.

Hunt (T. D.).—James Richards Hunt, son of Rev. Timothy Dwight Hunt, a missionary to Hawaii from 1844 to 1848, has sent us his address from Los Angeles. We are glad to get in touch with this family, will be pleased to send a Cousins Report of 1923, and will expect a letter containing all the Hunt news he has time to write, and perhaps a remittance, also, (Article III, By-Laws) to seal his title as Life-Member of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society. We also have a little photograph of Mary Hedges Hunt, wife of Rev. T. D. Hunt, which we would like to send him if he does not already have one in his possesion.

Hyde (C. M.).—We had hoped for a letter from Mr. Henry Hyde, of Ware, Mass., containing items of family news. There seems now to be no one else to keep us in touch, and we surely must not let the family of our dear Dr. and Mrs. Hyde drop from our Cousins' roll-call.

Mrs. Irene Ii Holloway died August 26, 1922, after a short illness. She is greatly missed, for she was much beloved, and in her heart was the law of kindness. Like the fragrance of the rare and beautiful flowers that blossomed about her, her loving words and kind deeds were scattered freely, first among her own people, and then in widening circles to the "stranger within our gates."

Ives (M.).—On March 14, 1923, news was received through Miss Mary B. Ives of the death of her father, Harlan Page Ives, at his home, 11 Bennett Place, Danbury, Conn., on July 17, 1922. He died at the ripe age of 82, of heart failure after a protracted illness.

Mr. Ives was born Aug. 18, 1840, in Kealakekua, Hawaii, far from white neighbors, and was carried in a canoe—a little bundle of humanity wrapped in Father Thurston's coat—across the threatening waters to another shore to find another missionary mother when his own mother was supposed to be dying. As a boy Harlan Page Ives lived with his parents in a part of the Old Mission Home at Honolulu, when the Halls occupied the other half of the house. The family left Hawaii in 1853—about a year after the Cousins' Society was born. During preparations for the Centennial in 1920 Mr. Ives and his sons were indefatigable in their search for a printed copy of the old tune of "Melton Mobray," sung to the words, "Head of the Church Triumphant," etc. His interest in Hawaii has ever been intense.—We are happy to say that Mr. Ives' daughter, Miss Mary Brainerd Ives, will keep us in touch with this large and interesting family.

Miss Ives tells of the death, on Dec. 16, 1922, of her brother-in-law, Frank Henry Bennett, the husband of her sister Helen Vaill Ives Bennett. Mrs. Bennett, with her three children, Elizabeth, aged seventeen, and Fred, aged sixteen, both in the High School, and Sylvia, twelve years old, in the Junior High School, spent the winter in their grandmother's home. Miss Ives writes, "My father was a most devout and consistent Christian and a great student of the Bible. The Bible was read and prayers offered twice daily in our household from my earliest recollection, and I sometimes wonder now, with such a large family, and in the rush of living, how he ever accomplished it."

Johnson (E.).—Miss Bertha Frances Bindt, teacher in the Pearl City school, with her adopted nephew, Frank Bindt, still occupies the home of her aunt Frances Johnson at the Peninsula—a home with a pet parrot, chickens and intelligent goats, and surounded by roses, ferns and flowers galore; a place very dear to kamaainas who have been there as guests. Little Frank is now a bright and happy schoolboy. His brother Arthur is at the Waipahu Plantation, Oahu, Walter is in the employ of the Inter-Island S. S. Company and Henry is at the University of Hawaii, in his senior year. In July Henry made an address before the Rotary Club, (whose scholarship he has been using for two years) on "The Opportunities the University confers," and what these opportunities had meant to him and to others. One of the faculty has said that in his department Henry, though handicapped, had in his junior year ranked highest of all the University students. Quite a tribute to our blind Cousin. Henry has been editor of the University weekly paper, "The Hawaiian Mirror."

Judd (G. P.).—Mr. Gerrit P. Wilder, chairman of our society's Buildings and Grounds committee, was re-elected to the legislature this year. Mr. Wilder's idea for beautifying the Honolulu harbor was carried out on Feb. 16 by an impressive ceremony in connection with the planting of 100 cocoanut trees on Sand Island, at the mouth of the harbor. There were addresses by Gov. Farrington, Mayor John H. Wilson, Gen. Summerall, Lorrin A. Thurston, Vaughan MacCaughey, Gerrit Wilder and others; and in planting the cocoanuts they were assisted by Boy Scouts and representatives from twenty or more of the public schools of the city. Each raked the soil over this germ of a future tree and left it to grow with the years.—Mrs. Samuel G. Wilder returned to England this winter, sailing on Jan. 10 for the mainland.—Mrs. Laura (Wilder) Wight is at 39 Judd Street, and has two of her grandsons with her, Francis and Sam. They spend the week-end at Kawailoa, Oahu. She is anticipating a visit from her daughter Leslie, from Norway, with her husband, Alfred T. Hurum.—Sam Wight and his wife, Agnes Judd Buchanan Wight, have returned to Honolulu, while Frank Wight and his family are enjoying country life on the other side of Oahu.—Mr. James A. Wilder spent some time in New York and while there was appointed Chief Sea Scout for life of the Boy Scouts of America. Since his return he has been writing his Sea-scout Manual. He has also painted a portrait of Prince Kuhio, which has been hung, with ceremony, in the Capitol building. Mr. Wilder's play, "Knights of the Square Table," was given at Central Union Church for a Christmas entertainment.—James Harnden Wilder is in his senior year at Harvard University.

Mrs. Swanzy is on the Parks and Playgrounds Commission in Honolulu. Her daughter, Mrs. Bennett, is the newly elected commissioner of Girl Scouts on the island of Hawaii.—In November a little daughter, Ruth Farley Massey, was welcomed to the home of Wm. P. and Ruth Farley Massey, of Winchester, Va.—Miss Pauahi entertained friends at the Judd home at Kualoa recently.

Dr. J. S. B. Pratt went East to attend a medical congress in June. —Miss Catharine Pratt was married, Sept. 2nd, at a very pretty home wedding. The ceremony was performed by a cousin of the bride, Rev. Henry P. Judd, and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Agnes H. B. Judd, a grand-aunt, accompanied on the violin by another cousin, Mrs. George P. Cooke. She was given away by her father, and her bridesmaids were her three sisters, Hester, Laura and Margaret Pratt, with her friend, Miss Helen McLean. The "best man" was her eldest brother, Scott Pratt, who came from Kauai to attend the wedding. The groom, Mr. Harry Peyton Field, is from Norfolk, Va., but they are making their home in Schenectady, N. Y.—Mr and Mrs. Pratt, Jr., made a visit on the mainland, returning in December.—He, J. Scott B. Pratt, Jr., after three years as assistant manager of Kilauea plantation, Kauai, has become associate agriculturist of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association experiment station, in Honolulu.—Joshua Pratt has left the sugar business and is with the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. at Wahiawa.—A brother of Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, Dr. Henry Z. Pratt, is a visitor here since February.—Mrs. Geo. Sherman, whose efforts were instrumental in lowering the price of fish and some other things, was re-elected president of the Housewives' League. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman re-visited London in November, where they had not been for thirteen years.

Mrs. Agnes H. B. Judd celebrated in April the fiftieth anniversary of her wedding. Married on April 4, 1872, she came as a bride to Hawaii where she was welcomed by many who have ever since been her friends. Among these was P. C. Jones, who then greeted her as she came down the gangplank. Now, 50 years later, he renews his salutation of the bride, while but two weeks later still, in Paradise above he greets anew also the groom of 1872, his old-time friend, Chief Justice A. Francis Judd. Mrs. Judd and Miss Agnes spent their vacation on Hawaii, visiting Hilo and the volcano, and returning in September. During their vacation Miss Agnes collected data for the Recorder's records, and since then has spent much time in getting them into shape for the Big Book. Miss Judd's greatest work, however, has been in her position as commissioner of Girl Scouts, with which organization she has been connected from the beginning, five years ago.

A. F. Judd has been elected Vice-President of the Board of Trustees for Punahou School.—Miss Bernice, eldest daughter of A. F. Judd, spent her vacation at her island home and returned to continue her college course in her second year at Dana Hall.—Dorothy, at Punahou, is greatly interested in art.—Dr. J. R. Judd, with his wife, in June attended the 25th anniversary of his graduation at Yale College.—Rev. H. P. Judd, secretary of the Hawaiian Board, was called to Kauai in January to conduct the funeral services of Mrs. Mary Rice Scott.—Mr. Charles S. Judd, Superintendent of Forestry, has a short sketch in The Friend, May, 1922, telling of the various trees to be found in the Hawaiian National Park.—Mr. Lawrence M. Judd, perhaps the youngest member of the legislature at this time, has been honored by being made President of the Senate. —Mrs. Sophie Judd Cooke has been greatly interested in the new system of education and has founded the Hanahauoli school on its principles. Mrs. Cooke does quite a bit of practicing of music with her children, and with them appears in public performances. It is quite an orchestra the Cooke family can put before an audience.

Mrs. Belle (Carter) Crehore is occupying her lovely new home on Judd Street. Her daughter, Sybil (Crehore) Scribner, and her husband, on Kauai, have two little folks in their home, Sybil coming on the happy Easter morn of 1922, and little Charles Walter Crehore, also borne on the March breezes and arriving in time to celebrate the Easter time of 1923.—Mrs. M. (Scott) Carter Davis visited her brother and other friends in Honolulu last summer.—Rev. C. P. and Grace (Carter) Erdman have moved to Pasadena, Calif. —Mrs. Agnes (Carter) Galt returned to the Islands with greatly improved health.—Mr. Jack Galt has built him a new house just across the stream from his father's home.—Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Carter, with their two daughters and Miss Vera Damon, sailed for Europe in August. Some of the party are now in Paris, but Mrs. Dyer returned to receive an expected guest, who arrived on March 30, 1923.

As Mr. Carter is President of the commission, this is perhaps the best place to call attention to the report of the "Historical Commission" for the period ending Dec. 31, 1922. This commission was created in 1921 and approved by Gov. C. J. McCarthy. Gov. Farrington appointed as members of this commission, Hon. Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, Hon. George R. Carter and Dr. K. C. Leebrick. After the death of Prince Kuhio, Mrs. A. P. Taylor was appointed to fill the vacancy. Their first work was to secure the appointment of a trained historian to direct the work of the Commission. Mr. R. S. Kuykendall was offered and accepted the position, arriving June 19, 1922. With headquarters at the Univ. of Hawaii the executive secretary also has a room in the Chamberlain Bldg. Much advance has been made in searching out and marking historical landmarks, and in securing war records, but especially along the line of "The Revised School History." Mr. Carter, Pres. of the Commission, is looking for additional Hawaiiana, while on his present tour.

Kinney (H.).—Henry Walsworth Kinney, son of Henry A. and Selma S. Kinney, remembered in Hawaii as superintendent of Public Schools, is now editor of the Trans-Pacific Magazine in Tokyo, Japan. Mr. Kinney has also written a book, "The Code of the Karstons," which was recently reviewed in the Honolulu Advertiser. Bishop Kinney, eldest son of Henry W. Kinney, expects to pass through Honolulu this summer on his way to the University of California.

Mrs. Charlotte L. Madison, granddaughter of Lulu Kinney, has sent the Recorder a long list of genealogical records pertaining to her branch of the family, that will help greatly in bringing the Kinney genealogy up to date.

Leadingham (J.).—Rev. John Leadingham writes of his removal from Pomona to Los Angeles, where four of his children make their home. The other two live at Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Mr. Leadingham is in the best of health and at the age of sixty-five does not feel much handicapped by years. He has a warm place in his heart for Honolulu people, and would especially like to see Rev. and Mrs. O. H. Gulick. He spoke of Mr. Robert Andrews, whom he remembered "with great respect and esteem for his sincerity, his sound Christian character and good sense."

Loomis (E.).—The Secretary has received no late letter from Miss May E. Loomis, of St. Cloud, Fla., but she may have written to some other Cousin from whom we can have news later. We hope that the Florida climate is building up her health.

Lyman (D. B.).—Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Lyman, with their superb view from Alewa Heights, and their consecrated automobile, seem to enjoy life, finding or making many an occasion for helping others to revel in the outdoors.—Miss Ellen Lyman entertained for a part of the summer her cousins, Mrs. Helen Chamberlain Ives, of Illinois, and Miss Harriet Forbes, of Honolulu. Her home is at Hanaulani, Hilo.—Mr. Francis A. Lyman and family have left Aiea plantation and moved to the Coast.—His brother Howard is a senior at the University at Madison, Wis., where he was last year business manager of the Badger, the school paper. On the staff of the same paper was Miss Rachel Haswell, a descendant of the Ruggles family. Thus Cousins from the uttermost parts of the earth meet and claim kinship.—Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Lyman celebrated their silver wedding on July 6, 1922. In June of 1922 Mr. Lyman, after 25 years of active management, resigned the principalship of the Hilo Boys' Boarding School. After placing the school in the hands of competent leaders he retains only the position of Treasurer, and with it that of advisory trustee. Their new home at Hanaulani Place has a fine outlook and is furnished with a polished koa dining-room set made by the boys from Hilo Boys' Boarding School.—Their daughter, Miss Kathryn, graduated at Smith College last June, and has been teaching this year at Punahou.—Orlando Lyman, her brother, spent the vacation with his friend, Andrew Westervelt, and Andrew's father, Rev. W. D. Westervelt, motoring through California, and is back in Honolulu again.—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lyman enjoy their new home far up in Nuuanu Valley.—Mr. and Mrs. McCluskey, with their two boys, are in Honolulu, Mr. McCluskey continuing at the Normal School.

Richard K. Lyman, son of Richard Lyman of Hilo, is attending the Univ. of Hawaii.—David Belden Lyman has left Kohala and is with the Salvation Army in Kaimuki, Honolulu.—On March 5, 1923, there was born to Mr. and Mrs. James G. Reid, (Sarah I. B.

HOLBROOK LIBRARY
PACIFIC SCHOOL

Lyman), a daughter, Elizabeth Haulani Reid, a first daughter in a family of boys.—Albert K. Lyman, who has been in the diplomatic service with General Crowder in Havana, Cuba, has been transferred to Washington, D. C.—Charles Bishop Lyman is at Fort Riley, Kansas, where he is Instructor of Infantry.—Thornton Lyman is executive officer of the Rehabilitation Homes Commission, of which George P. Cooke is head.

Lyons (L.).—Mrs. John F. Doyle, (Emma C. Lyons), visited the mainland in June, going by way of Hilo where she was joined by her sister Isabel, Mrs. A. W. Richardson. They spent most of the time in San Francisco but went as far as to Detroit, Mich., where they visited their uncle, Dr. A. B. Lyons and his family, returning late in September.—In November Arthur W. Richardson, husband of Isabel C. Lyons, died in Hilo from a stroke of paralysis which he sustained some weeks before. Mr. Richardson had made his home in Hilo for more than 30 years and was for many years connected with The American Factors Hilo Branch. On Nov. 24, 1902, he married our Cousin and was proud of his connection with the Society, though he never became a member.

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Lyons and Miss Lucia are "well and happy," Mrs. Doyle reports. "Lucia is deep in church and mission work in spite of the home duties she executes so capably." "Dr. Bert Lyon and his wife are still in Madison (Wis.) all engrossed at present in building a new home."

Paris (J. D.).—Miss Ella Paris, of Kealakekua, was in Honolulu in November visiting her niece, Mrs. Raymond W. Smith, of Makiki Heights.—Mrs. John D. Paris, from her home in Kona comes frequently to visit her children here.—Miss Ethel Paris is a worker for the Child Welfare Board.—Wm. Johnson Paris and his wife, Margaret Hind Paris, of Kona, Hawaii, have a little son, William Johnson Paris, Jr.

Parker (B. W.).—Rev. H. H. Parker was very ill for a time but his health has improved. His great work, the compiling of the Hawaiian Dictionary, is completed, and as the large responsibility for the work has been laid aside, the physical impress of the care-filled years has gone with it and he seems younger.

Miss Mary Parker also grew weaker through the winter months and was taken to her sister's, where she could receive more care. Now that the Springtime comes she gains slowly.—Miss Caroline Parker, too, has been on the sick list, but with such efficient nieces at hand they are all to be congratulated. Miss Emeline spends the nights at the Parker homestead, and with her sister, Mrs. May Wilcox, takes a daughter's place in the home. Mrs. Thayer also calls every day in her machine to cheer and help.

Rice (W. H.).—Mrs. Dora Isenberg left in April for a trip to the Atlantic Coast where she will see her uncle, Col. George De La Vergne.

Mr. Wm. Hyde Rice attended the Evangelical Association in Honolulu on July 2nd, 1922, and presided as president of the Sunday School Association.—On July 23 he celebrated his 76th birthday anniversary at Haena, Kauai—the celebration taking the form of a family reunion. Three of his sons and two daughters were present with their wives and husbands, and eighteen grandchildren were there.—Mrs. Rice was one of the first women of Hawaii to talk over the waters by wireless telephone, speaking to Mrs. Henry Waterhouse in June, and getting replies.—On Oct. 17, at 4 p. m., Mr. and Mrs. Rice celebrated their Golden Wedding at their home, Halemanu, in Lihue, where all their children were born. The eight children were all present on this happy day, and ten of the twenty grandchildren also. The reception was held on the broad, hospitable lanai, hallowed by so many memories, and receiving with them were the bridesmaids of 50 years ago,—Mrs. C. M. Cooke, Sr., sister of the groom, and Mrs. William Waterhouse, then Miss Lena Smith—with the remaining groomsman, Mr. William Waterhouse. Mrs. Rice, in her brocaded silk trimmed with duchess lace, held a bouquet of golden orchids and forget-me-nots in a ruffle of gold lace and tied with long, golden streamers. She wore a brooch of gold filigree set with pearls, which had formerly belonged to Queen Kapiolani, and Mr. Rice wore a pair of horseshoe cuff-links, studded with pearls, worn by King Kalakaua. Both these gifts were donated by Princess Kalanianaole —in appreciation of what Mr. and Mrs. Rice had done for the Hawaiian people. The lanai and the whole house were resplendent with yellow gladiolus, golden chrysanthemum and day lilies,—except the library, which was redolent with hundreds of roses, which filled the whole house with their fragrance. The luau, at which 1,800 guests were present, was held in an improvised lanai which was decorated in green and gold, and filled with the soft, melodious strains of a Hawaiian orchestra. Oct. 17, 1922, was a day of days for all Kauai.

On June 8th William Henry Rice and his wife, Mary Girvin Rice, celebrated their silver wedding—a delightful occasion.—Mr. Charles A. Rice, manager of the Lihue ranch, came to Honolulu in February with his wife and daughter Edith, to remain during the legislative session, as Mr. Rice is again a member of the Senate.—Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook Goodale are now living on Wyllie Street, Honolulu.—In August Mrs. Arthur Rice returned from a visit to the Coast. Mr. Arthur Rice has bought the McLean property, up Nuuanu Valley, and is living there.

On Jan. 22, 1923, came the first break in this long Rice chain, when Mrs. Mary Rice Scott was called to leave her loving ministra-tions here to enter a higher service, and to sit with Mary of old at the feet of her Lord; for she had "chosen that good part that cannot be taken away." Mr. and Mrs. Scott, with their five daughters, had but recently left Berkeley, Calif., to make their home here, and this sudden call has left a desolate household. Eleanor and Leilani are taking the kindergarten course in Honolulu. The three younger girls are with their aunt, Mrs. Ralph Wilcox, and attending school at Lihue.—Mr. Harold Rice is again a member of the House of Representatives. His daughter, Charlotte Emily, is attending "The Girls' School" at Santa Barbara.—Dr. Sexton's family are still in Hilo.

Richards (W.).—Letters were received last year from both the Clark and Brewer branches of this family, but the items of news were all printed in our last Annual Report. No word has since come to your Secretary.

Rogers (E. H.).—The visit of the Misses Mary Eva and Mabel Sunter was recorded in last year's Report and we have had no word from any of the Rogers connection since that time.

Rowell (G. B.).—Miss Dorothy Rowell left for the East in August for an extended stay. She is now studying at Teachers' College, Columbia University, N. Y., and is deep in study in the School of Education, taking mental tests, educational tests, educational psychology, foundations of method, philosophy of education and community organization—a truly formidable array, but she says there is so much more she would like to learn she is tempted to stay another year. She has a pleasant room just across the street from the Teachers' College, and nearest the building where all her classes are. She goes over to see her sister Elsie in Brooklyn occasionally, and to Rochelle, N. Y., where her Aunt Adelaide and Uncle C. Higgins live. It is nice, she says, to have a room there, and to feel that she has a home to go to.

Ruggles (S.).—Mrs. Frances S. Loomis, granddaughter of Samuel and Nancy Ruggles, wrote in October of the birth and death of a grandson, William Woodford Loomis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Loomis, who have one little boy, five years old, remaining. Mr. Loomis's granddaughters, Helen and Rachel Haswell, are classmates of Howard Lyman, youngest son of the late Dr. F. A. Lyman. Helen is on the editorial staff of The Badger, the Junior Annual, of which young Lyman is business manager.—Francis Loomis Christison graduated from Ripon College and Frances Louise Loomis is a senior in Illinois University. These girls visited their grandmother last summer, and with Helen and Rachel she had the four granddaughters, all about the same age, to spend the summer with her.—Donald and Dale Christison, the remaining two of the triplets, are both over six feet tall, and are juniors in college.—Little Elizabeth is a junior in High School, as is Lyman Haswell. Homer Haswell has entered kindergarten.—Arthur Loomis's son Edward was very ill with diphtheria, but is now well.

Mr. Peck's health is better.

Shipman (W. C.).—Mr. Oliver T. Shipman made a business trip to Honolulu in September. Two grandchildren have been welcomed into his family recently. Frank Lehua Shipman was born June 6th, 1920, at Iowa City, Iowa, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lohiau Shipman, and on Nov. 27, 1921, at Independence, Iowa, Little Francis Leilani Simmons came into the family of Kenneth and Jane Shipman Simmons.

Mrs. Mary Shipman English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shipman, visited in Honolulu in September. She came to place her daughter Margaret in school, stopping in the meantime with her aunt, Mrs. Carrie Robinson. Margaret English entered Punahou as a boarder. Her ten year old brother remains with his parents in Hilo.—Miss Caroline Shipman has painstakingly collected genealogical data for the Recorder during the year.—Little Beryl, daughter of Florence Shipman Blackshear, seems to be a great pet in the family. —Miss Margaret Shipman spent a part of her summer on Kauai.— Herbert Shipman is living at Keaau, on the ranch, and is very much interested in agriculture.

Smith (L.).—Beautiful Arcadia was the scene of many happy gatherings in July when Judge and Mrs. Frear entertained in compliment to their daughter, Miss Virginia Frear, at home on vacation. Miss Virginia Frear sailed in August to the Coast to continue her studies at Mills College. Later her engagement to Mr. Urban Earl Wild was announced. Mr. Wild is a young lawyer, formerly associated with his father's firm, later with Arthur G. Smith, under the firm name of Smith and Wild.

In May, Rev. Walter Frear, DD., was called up higher after a life of 94 years filled with good works. He will be remembered as pastor of the Fort St. Church, 1870-1881, when he knew, loved and labored with the mission fathers in the days of special history making.

Walter F. Dillingham has spent much time in Washington, D. C., looking after Hawaii's interests. Mrs. Dillingham sailed in January to join her husband in Washington. In the meantime her mother, Mrs. Adams, is occupying the Dillingham home.

Harold Dillingham's two older sons are in their second year at the Honolulu Military Academy. They spend their Sundays at their beautiful home on Diamond Head Road.

Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Erdman, with Miss Louise, spent some months on the mainland, going as far as New York and New Jersey and returning in October.—Harold Erdman accompanied them, but remained and spent the year at Lawrenceville School in preparation for Princeton. During the Christmas vacation he was at Montclair, where he was initiated into the joys of winter sports.—Mrs. Erdman has assisted the Woman's Board of Missions by her help on the program committee.

Mrs. Clara B. Smith sends cheery Christmas greetings from San Francisco.

Smith (J. W.).—Mr. Charles A. Hartwell was married, June 24, 1922, to Miss Harriet Hatch, daughter of Judge F. M. Hatch. The quiet wedding took place at St. Andrews' Cathedral, only relations and a very few dear friends being present at the ceremony. They are now occupying the old Hartwell homestead. Mrs. Hartwell's father passed away in February.—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Hartwell came from South Natick, Mass., on a visit, and the visit is being prolonged, we hope, indefinitely. In December they went to Kauai to introduce their son to the home of his great-grandparents at Koloa and to revive the mother's memories of scenes and people visited but once in more than a score of years. Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell are very proud of their first grandson, Nathan Anthony, born August 23, 1922, who is the first child of the fifth generation of Dr. J. W. Smith's family.—The five Hartwell sisters are now all living in Nuuanu Valley, not far from the old homestead.

Mr. Clarence Smith, son of W. O. Smith, is with an artist friend in Hollywood, Calif.—Mrs. Ethel (Smith) Baldwin spent much time in Washington, D. C., while her husband was delegate from Hawaii. —Mrs. Kathrine (Smith) Baldwin has been on a trip with her husband to the Orient.—On July 12, Lorrin K. Smith and wife lost from their home their youngest son, little Stanley. A few months later, March 9, 1923, breaking through the shadows of sorrow and bereavement, his little sister was sent to bring them cheer.

Miss Alice Smith, supervisor of physical culture in Honolulu, has been working out a new system of athletics. She is still with her parents, surrounding with an atmosphere of youth and vigor their busy lives. Her brother, Raymond W. Smith, continues with the I.-I. S. N. Co. and resides with his family on Makiki Heights.

Mrs. William Waterhouse has made a long visit on Kauai, where she was recently joined by her husband, at the home of their son, Dr. A. Herbert Waterhouse, at Koloa. Here they are visiting old scenes and former friends, and acted as bridesmaid and groomsman as they did 50 years ago in the young days of romance and history making.—From the "Monthly Bulletin of the Woman's Board of the Pacific" we here insert a beautiful tribute to Madeline Waterhouse Nicholson. Miss Denton, of the Doshisha, where Madeline had been, writes of a visit to her home, and says, "I just wish every one of you could see Madeline in her home. The baby is brought up most carefully and scientifically, and is sweet and responsive beyond words, and so loving! Mr. Nicholson is an ideal husband and father. I just loved the three of them! Madeline has all sorts of contacts with mothers and their children, and she uses her home and child for texts of sermons. Madeline is far away from other foreigners, but the Japanese are just as naturally our friends."

Thurston (A.).—Mr. James T. Taylor, Consulting Civil Engineer, 207 Hawaiian Trust Co. Building, and Mrs. Taylor, also Mr. and Mrs. Thurston W. Taylor, have lovely homes at 2825 Park, and 2867 Park, Nuuanu Valley.—James P. Winne, manager of the merchandise department of Alexander and Baldwin, and wife, have been on the mainland for some time,—Mr. Winne looking after the interests of Alexander and Baldwin in New York City.—At the holiday season Miss Jane Winne was granted a year's leave of absence by the Punahou trustees to go on research work to the South Seas with Dr. and Mrs. Handy, of the Bishop Museum staff.—Miss Mary Winne had her vacation extended to Christmas, Miss Florence Carter substituting for her as Principal of the Elementary Department at Punahou.—Will Boyen has been for some time connected with the First National Bank. His sister Lucy is in the Phillips Commercial School.

Miss Pauline Kluegel left the University of Hawaii at the close of last year and entered a School for Physical Culture in Boston. Her father remains in Honolulu.—Miss May Kluegel and her father occupy their old home on Alexander street.

Lorrin A. Thurston, President of the Advertiser Publishing Co., made a summer cruise to the Palmyra Islands in a sampan, and, with his aide, remaining over one trip, made a chart of one particular island, which he sent to Washington, gathered shells—whole boxes of them—let his hair and beard grow, and returned looking like a pirate. He has been writing short and vigorous editorials in the Advertiser, which have much to do in shaping public opinion.—Robert S. Thurston now belongs to the business department of the Advertiser, and Lorrin P. Thurston also belongs to the Advertiser Staff: Lorrin, Jr., was one of a party that spent days in exploring valleys and caves of Kauai, climbing almost inaccessible cliffs and "discovering the ancient kingdom of Nualolo."—Mr. and Mrs. Twigg Smith spent some weeks on Tantalus, drinking in that life-giving air and ever charming panoramic view of valley and mountain, city and sea. Happy is the man with the faculty of transfixing bits of this beauty with his brush. On the following January a little daughter, Barbara, came to share the love and care of the household, especially that of the pretty, youthful-looking grandmother, who sits an honored queen in her new and convenient cottage near by.

Mrs. Clara Benfield Smith sent Christmas greetings from 2441 Jackson St., San Francisco.

No word has come from the Thomas Thurston Cousins—Dr. Asa and family and his sister, Lucy McNeely, with the twins, Asa Thurston and Lucy Thurston McNeely. We want to hear from them every year; for are they not commissioned to "carry on" these revered names, with all they suggest of triumphant achievement in the past, into the assured and challenging victory of the years that lie ahead?

Tinker (R.).—A letter was received from Miss Marina Purdon, niece of Mrs. Mary (Tinker) Harvey, whose interesting letters you have all enjoyed, telling of her plans. She expected to leave for England on March 21st for another stay of six months or a year. Her father's people are all there, and other friends whom she will visit. She expects to do some sketching and some study.

The Tinker relatives in the U. S. are widely scattered. Dr. and Mrs. Starr are at Los Angeles and Hollywood with their daughter, Doris (Starr) Ebersole. Silvia Starr is an honorary pupil at Lasell Seminary, near Boston.—In Mary Gray Weatherup's family, Margaret, the librarian, expects to go to Scotland and England for a three months' holiday, in May. Donald is at Springfield, Vt. Miss Purdon has not heard recently from her Uncle Robert, the last of the sons and daughters of Reuben and Mary Tinker, but thinks he is about the same—an octogenarian of eighty-five years.

Van Duzee (W. S.).—Our missionary Cousins, Miss Cyrene Oral and Miss Mary Van Duzee, have passed on to their reward, and their sister, Miss Grace, who kept us in touch with the family for so many years, has also entered into rest. There are other members of the family from whom we would like to hear,—for were they not born into the Cousinhood?

Wetmore (C. W.).—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis (Lucy T. Wetmore Lewis) visited Honolulu Nov. 29th on their second trip around the world. They were greatly interested in the library and museum, giving a donation and promising photographs for the picture-pillar—photographs of themselves and their sister, Mrs. Deacon, and her husband. We have a lovely picture of their sister, Dr. Frances Wetmore, which looks very lonely in the Wetmore frame.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis sailed from San Francisco on Nov. 8 on the Manoa, arriving in Honolulu Nov. 15 and going to Hilo the same day. Here, at the home of Mrs. Lewis's childhood, and at the volcano, they remained till Nov. 28. Three days only they gave to Honolulu and off they sailed for Auckland, spending most of December in New Zealand and most of January in Australia. February and March were given to sight-seeing in Africa, and they expected to arrive in Naples, Italy, on March 26, proceeding thence to France, Spain, London in England, to Scotland, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, and finally home by way of France. They are due in Boston May 15 and then—home! It surely is a wonderful trip.

With great regret the Wetmore house in Hilo was given up by the Y. M. C. A., and all kamaainas were sorry that the precious old home could not have continued to be a home for the up-building of character, as in the early days.

P. S.—A letter from Mrs. Lewis, written on the Atlantic Ocean, April 5, the day before reaching London, was received after the H. M. C. Report was copied for the printer. It is very interesting and part of it must be inserted. She says, "One of the very interesting features of this our second tour around the world was a day spent on the Zambesi in Rhodesia. We went up the river five miles from Victoria Falls to the grave of Mr. Samuel T. Alexander. It is on the bank about 100 yards from the shore in a small cemetery. The town of Livingston was started here but the location has been changed to one several miles up the river, and there are no kraals near. There was formerly a mission school here. This, however, has been abandoned for one near Livingston. We cleared the grave of the rank vegetation and placed two bouquets of wild flowers on it—one from Mr. A. F. Cooke by his request, and took several pictures of the last resting place of a good man—good in the business world, good in the home, community and church. We have known and loved Mr. Alexander, and to visit his grave beside the mighty river in this far away land was certainly one of the most satisfactory events of the journey.

"We sailed from Cape Town, South Africa, March 14, by way of St. Helena, Ascension and Canary Islands. Our plans were changed as there were no reservations for us by way of Suez Canal.

"We join in sending Aloha Nui to you and the Cousins."

Whitney (S.).—W. W. Goodale, Manager of the Waialua Agricultural Co., Ltd., and Mrs. Goodale have the sympathy of the Cousins in their loss by death of their sister, Mrs. Ellen (Goodale) Howard, of Townsend, Mass.—Mrs. Goodale, for a change of climate, has spent some weeks on Hawaii.—Holbrook Goodale resigned from the Navy and has entered the employ of the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. He and his wife, Juliet Rice Goodale, reside at the Goodale home on Wyllie St.—Mrs. Catherine (Goodale) Warren, making her home in Washington, D. C., after an absence of six years has recently been visiting her parents at Waialua, Oahu.

The other branches of the Whitney family seem to think there is nothing new to report since last year. We shall therefore expect all the more for the year following.

Wilcox (A.).—Mr. G. N. Wilcox was the donor of the new Salvation Army Boys' Home at Kaimuki. The gift was a large one,—forty acres of land, dormitories, refectory, administrative building, gymnasium, hospital, workshop and rooms for the executive officers, —worth about $300,000. The dedication took place Aug. 19, 1922.

Charles Hart Wilcox, II, son of the late Charles Hart Wilcox of Oakland, and his wife were welcome visitors in March and April, 1923. They spent most of the time on Kauai, just making a flying call at the Cousins' Old Mission Home and office.

Mrs. Albert S. Wilcox is about to erect a $75,000 library building at Lihue as a memorial to her late husband. The walls of the building will be of Hawaiian stone that time will not injure—a lasting tribute.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Wilcox spent some weeks on the Coast in October and November.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilcox, with Mr. and Mrs. Sloggett, made a short visit on the Coast early in September.—Richard Sloggett, who is in his senior year at Montezuma School, Los Gatos, accompanied them.—Miss Margaret boards at Punahou and was president of the Junior Hui Eleu.

Marion Waterhouse Wilcox, (Mrs. Charles), spent some time on the Coast, returning in November to her lovely home in Upper Nuuanu Valley, and bringing with her, like a fairy god-mother, presents for all the Maemae Sunday School children. This Sunday School has a very warm place in her heart, as she was one of its faithful teachers in her girlhood.—Miss Elsie Wilcox sailed for the mainland early in April, 1922, as a delegate to the National Educational Association in Boston. She also attended the Biennial Federation of Woman's Clubs, held in Chautauqua, N. Y., and a class reunion at Wellesley College. After these stirring and inspiring meetings she rested—motoring through New England and as far north as to Quebec.

Since sending out our last report the beautiful "Lihue Memorial Parish House" has been completed. It was erected by Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilcox in memory of their sons, Ralph Lyman Wilcox and Charles Henry Wilcox. A vivid description of it by Miss Ethel M. Damon is given in The Friend of June, 1922. Built of great blocks of native stone, placed among towering old trees, it will be a memorial for many generations of the love and esteem in which these departed young men were held, and in its mute way will carry on the work they would in all probability have done.—Miss Mabel Wilcox has been on the mainland for some months.

ADOPTED COUSINS.

Abell.—Miss Annie E. Abell is teaching at Tougaloo College. She usually goes north about the middle of June and stays through August. The first three weeks she goes with the Tuthills into Michigan, and July and August she spends in Western N. Y. She wishes to be remembered to Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Bowen and Ruth Garland, and to any others who remember her.

Babbitt.—Mrs. Sarah Babbitt came in June with her children, Elizabeth Carter, a Junior from Wellesley, and Howard, a freshman from Williams College, to spend the summer on their native islands. They were met here by Mr. Babbitt, who is agent of the Philippines Bureau of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association.

Beckwith.—Mrs. Harriet Goodale Beckwith died, Jan. 6, at her home in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., after a long illness. Her daughter Mary was with her at the parting, but Miss Martha was at Jamaica, on leave from Vassar to gather items of folk-lore. Miss Mary then went to Florida for a complete rest, and found it at the home of Miss Elizabeth Simpson, formerly a teacher at Waialua Seminary with Miss Mary Green.

Bowen.—Mrs. W. A. Bowen returned in October from her long visit on the mainland, accompanied by Miss Ruth Garland, now an accomplished nurse.—On Oct. 16, in New York City, a little son, William Alfred Bowen, came to Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer Bowen.

Birnie.—The daughter of Rev. Douglas P. Birnie, former pastor of Central Union Church, has married James Farmer. Dr. Birnie has been for many years a resident of Washington, D. C.

Crawford.—Mrs. Crawford, wife of Professor D. L. Crawford of the University of Hawaii, was one of the passengers rescued from the burning steamer "City of Honolulu."

Crozier.—Douglas Crozier, of Punahou, is at Cornell, as are Leon Ebersole and Charles Cassidy.

Flaxman.—Miss Sarah Flaxman has written to Miss Laura Green of her cozy home at Lancashire, England, with her sisters. Miss Margaret had been very ill but was better at the time of writing.

Foss.—Miss Ida C. Foss was a Micronesian missionary in those years of greatest trial and discouragement. Word has been recently received of her death at Melrose, Mass.

Gilman.—Miss Carrie Gilman and Miss Yarrow are at West Palm Beach, Florida.

Goodale.—Charles W. Goodale, son of Warren and brother of W. W. Goodale, has been awarded the gold medal of the American Institute of Mining Engineers for his public services in the interest of safety in mines. He is at present head of the "safety first" department of the "Anaconda Copper Mining Co. of Butte, Montana."

The death of Mrs. Ellen Goodale Howard was a great loss, not only to the relatives far and near, but to the whole community of Townsend, as shown by the lovely tribute of flowers, the long procession of children mourners and the eulogy given by her pastor. In every walk of life she seems to have made her presence felt for good.—Her son, Lewis W. Howard of Waialua, was at the funeral, with his brothers, David G. Howard of Annapolis with his wife, and Charles S. Howard of Washington, D. C. Her twin brother, David Goodale, and wife were also there, with Miss Mary Beckwith and many others.—The yearly church roll-call of the Townsend Congregational Church, of which Mr. Howard is clerk, occurred in November,—a delightful re-union, saddened only by the absence of their beloved Ellen (Goodale) Howard.

Griffiths.—Prof. Arthur Floyd Griffiths, who passed away June 12, has been so interested in the Society and seemed so one of us, that unconsciously we have written his name as a Cousin and mourn his departure as such.—Mrs. Griffiths and her daughter have returned to make their home in Honolulu, and Mrs. Griffiths has brought her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clemence, with her.

Hopper.—Miss Margaret Hopper has been back in Honolulu for some months, but sails in April or May for the mainland.

Howard.—Walter L. Howard, of 505 West Ocean Ave., Long Beach, Calif., sent his 60th birthday greetings on Feb. 12. A little clipping tells of the happy gathering on this occasion and names some of the former Honolulans who accepted the hospitality and tendered their greetings. Mr. and Mrs. Howard have been in Long Beach for about ten years, but still keep in touch with Hawaii and Hawaiian people.

Lewis.—Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Lewis arrived in Honolulu March 13, and are at the Courtland Hotel. Mrs. Lewis was Mrs. McCully Higgins, formerly a resident here, and Mr. Lewis has been a frequent visitor,—both are interested in the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society.

Lowrey.—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lowrey gave a charming garden party to about 200 friends, at Niniko, their mountain home. Among those who assisted in the entertainment of guests were our Cousin, Mrs. W. L. Moore, with her daughters, Mrs. Kirk and Miss Eloise Moore. Mrs. Moore spent a few weeks at the Coast, where she placed her daughter Carol in school at Stanford. In September Mr. and Mrs. Lowrey sailed for the Orient on a pleasure trip of some months, expecting to visit the important cities of China and Japan. They have since returned.

Lydgate.—In the death of Rev. J. M. Lydgate a strong prop seems to have been removed from the social life, not only of Kauai but the Islands. He had fitted into so many interests and belonged to so many schemes that affected the people of Hawaii that his place will be hard to fill.—Homer Lydgate is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity at Yale.—Mortimer has taken his father's position as Territorial Land Agent for the County of Kauai. The two younger brothers are caring for their mother and attending the Lihue High School.

Parke.—Miss Jane Parke, with her sisters, Miss Annie and Mrs. Walbridge, and their cousin, Miss Helen Severance, made an extended trip through England and other European countries and returned in November. Miss Parke and her sisters are about to start on their annual migration again. They entertained, from November to April, a cousin, Mrs. G. B. (Severance) Kirkbride, at their Nuuanu home.

Price.—Rev. and Mrs. Francis M. Price are now at Pao Ting Fu, China.

Scudder.—Rev. Doremus Scudder, M.D., was seriously injured by an automobile last summer and resigned from his position as Secretary of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches. Since then Dr. Scudder has come to California and occupied the pulpit of the First Congregational Church at Pomona, Calif., in the absence of its pastor.

Severance.—Rev. Claude M. Severance writes a long, interesting letter from Sundals Erwina, Bucks Co., Pa., where he is establishing a home for his old age on a four acre lot on which is a large brick house, barn, etc. Through the week he works at bookkeeping for Holland & O'Donnell and on Fridays and Saturdays puts his place in order, whitewashing trees, planting garden and getting ready for the family to occupy during July and August. His oldest son, who was sick a year ago, is well now, is 20 years old and has secretarial work with Post & McCord in construction work. He does fine work in the Sunnyside church of Long Island City, is a good singer and speaker. The second son, Walter Frear Severance, 17 years old, is with the Queensboro Corporation who construct those great apartment buildings at Jackson Heights. Little Minnie, 12 years old, is doing well in a Manhattan public school. Mrs. Severance still teaches vocal culture and sings like a lark.

The big event of Mr. Severance's year was a trip to Cleveland, Ohio, where he was invited to preach the sermon at the silver jubilee of Denison Ave. Cong. church, which he organized, built and helped dedicate 25 years ago. He gathered the first 118 members and today they have 575 members, and a $75,000 building with a son of Pres. King of Oberlin as pastor. The whole trip was a whirlwind of pleasure, he says. Mr. Severance wants more news—what he gets from the report is "so brief."

Simpson.—Miss Margaret Simpson, one of the three sisters who taught on Maui away back in the 80's, wrote a very newsy letter to Miss Laura Green. She and her sister Dora, who had been for many years a physician and surgeon in the Good Samaritan Hospital at Jhelum, India, with Miss Mary Beckwith, had all gone down to Florida for a rest. They all spent the winter with their sister, Elizabeth Simpson, who has a home at Ocean City, Fla. She describes the happy Christmas they had together, where the weather was cool enough to enjoy a fire in the deep-mouthed fireplace while they talked of other climes and other friends. Their cousin, Miss Brewster, principal at one time of Kohala Seminary, had been there and told the Island news and called to mind their Island friends. Miss Simpson writes, "Mary arrived Feb. 10, and we are so enjoying her, as well as Martha's frequent letters. Mary enjoys the beach and the shells. Yesterday Dora and she rode in an auto up the beach and then walked the five miles back, bringing their hands and pockets full of sea spoils. They have been in sea-bathing many times since Christmas."

Terry.—Mr. and Mrs. Terry of Hilo, went to the mainland for a change. They spent some months in Oberlin and in visiting relatives, but Hawaii is home and they were glad to get back.

Thrum.—Mr. T. G. Thrum published in December the 59th edition of his Hawaiian Annual—for 1923. It is full, from cover to cover, of items of interest. There is much of history; and it is a good magazine to keep for reference.—Mr. Thrum recently received quite a compliment, when the League of Nations, with headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland, sent to "Mr. Thrum, the historian of Hawaii," for a complete set of all his Hawaiian Annuals, the first number dating back into the 70's.—Mr. Thrum was at the Bishop Museum for months, putting on the finishing touches to Mr. Parker's New Hawaiian Dictionary. This is now off the press and ready for distribution.

Turner.—Miss Charlotte L. Turner has written a very complete historical sketch of Lahaina, which was published in the December "Friend." It includes early traditions, origin of the name, arrival of the missionaries, chief characters, events and history, with a sketch of Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin, and a glimpse of Lahaina at the present day.

Thompson.—Mr. and Mrs. Uldrick Thompson left Honolulu in August, expecting to spend the autumn and winter in Southern California and then make their home in New York City, that they "may get acquainted with their children," who all reside there.—Mr. Thompson was one of the foundation stones upon which the Kamehameha Manual School was built. His quiet, dignified personality, his integrity and upright life, with his ability and love for teaching, have all been built into the character of the many boys whose lives he has helped to mould. A meeting of the friends and alumni was held on the campus, where music, speeches of appreciation, and gifts told Mr. and Mrs. Thompson how much they were beloved. Among the gifts were 100 colored lantern slides and a collection of photographs of island scenes.

Van Slyke.—Dr. D. D. Van Slyke, physiological chemist of the Rockefeller Institute, gave a talk in January at the sugar planters' Experiment Station on the subject, "Chemical Work of the Rockefeller Institute." Dr. Van Slyke is the step-son of Mrs. Hanford Van Slyke, formerly a teacher of music at Punahou and soloist in Fort Street Church choir.

Waterhouse.—Mrs. Elizabeth P. Waterhouse looks frail, but her great faith and love have given her a strong arm on which numbers of her own household may lean in times of sorrow and bereavement, and strengthens her for the superintending of the Sunday School and sewing school at the Mae-mae mission chapel. She is happy in having her oldest daughter, Mrs. Dawson, and her manly son, Geoffrey Stubbs, next door. Mrs. Waterhouse has been greatly interested in the three motherless Kahele girls of Mae-mae. She pays tuition this year for the youngest, Mabel, and the Cousins pay for Eva Becky at Maunaolu, while Mrs. John Waterhouse pays for Elizabeth at Kawaiahao.

Mr. Fred P. Waterhouse made a flying visit to Hawaii in February on his way to meet his wife and daughter Kealoha in Europe.

Dr. Ernest C. Waterhouse, after a longer absence than usual in Sumatra, returned in February for a few weeks' stay in Honolulu. But this happy re-union ended in a tragedy when his wife's life went out and he himself was pinned under the car in an automobile accident. The Dr. left soon after with his youngest daughter, Gwendolyn, to join his other children, Amy and Leigh, in New England.—Leigh Waterhouse and Amy spent much of their summer vacation together, visiting Niagara Falls and other places of interest. Amy then returned to Smith College and Leigh entered the freshman class at Princeton.—Shadford Waterhouse is a senior in Punahou school. Both Mr. and Mrs. George Waterhouse are members of the Hawaiian Board.—On Nov. 12, 1922, Mr. and Mrs. Isenberg (Eleanor Waterhouse) welcomed a little daughter, Elizabeth Pinder Isenberg.—Marion (Waterhouse) Wilcox spent some time on the Coast.—Mrs. Margaret (Waterhouse) Walker left early in the summer of 1922 with her two fairy-like little daughters, and had a fine time visiting Mr. Walker's relatives and in motoring among the picturesque scenes of Scotland. They returned before the cold weather overtook them on the mainland.

Whitney.—Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Whitney went to the Coast in April of 1922, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. William Weinrich. As they were quite ill over there they were glad to return in June to the islands, where they soon regained their usual vigor.—Mrs. Whitney greatly regrets the loss of the large algaroba trees that have stood in the Whitney yard and all along Punahou Street ever since her arrival in Honolulu, about forty-five years ago. They were blown down in the January storms this year.

VITAL STATISTICS.

BORN.

Andrew.—In Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 3, 1922, to Archibald Andrew and Mary Kaui (Wilcox) Andrew, a daughter, Maryly Kaui Andrew.

IN MEMORIAM.

A remarkable story of long lives well spent, these pages tell. When the Master summoned his reapers to gather at the Harvest Home, the messenger called from our band thirteen who had numbered their fourscore years on earth, and three of these had passed their ninetieth milestone. Only two little buds of promise were with them, and the other ten were called in the heat of the day, before the shadows began to lengthen.

Robert Wilson Andrews was born June 8, 1837, at Honolulu, the son of Rev. Lorrin Andrews, first Principal of Lahainaluna Seminary, author of Andrews' Hawaiian Dictionary, and later Justice of the Supreme Court and Secretary of the King's Council in Honolulu. His mother was Mary Ann Wilson, daughter of Rev. Robert Wilson, of Covington, Ky.

Robert's first recollections were of the building of Kawaiahao stone church in 1840; the excavations, the piles of coral rock and the busy workmen, and near at hand the sea—the wonderful sea and the ships of which he never tired. Later were the delights of Royal School and Punahou, with such instructors as Mr. Fuller and that prince of teachers, Dr. Edward Beckwith, to unfold the beauties and mysteries of his beloved books—books so precious that the musty smell clinging to them from the long voyage was ever to him a sweet perfume. And the boys and girls—how he loved them!—who met at "the four C's" (Castle, Cooke, Clark and Chamberlain) and made a bee line across the dusty, treeless plain to Punahou. That was in the long ago. His education was continued at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, where he was graduated B.S. in 1862.

Mr. Andrews was a machinist, learning his trade with D. Weston at what is now the Honolulu Iron Works, and as a machinist he worked in Boston, Providence, Cincinnati and San Francisco. He was likewise engaged in sugar-mill and marine engineering in Hawaii. He was a teacher also, being at one time Principal of Haleakala Farm School for Boys, and in 1890 Principal of the Malumalu Industrial School.

In 1894 he became Registrar of Conveyances in Honolulu and continued that work until his eyesight failed. Later, for about eighteen years, he was Recorder for the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society, and in this position compiled the Genealogical Record of the missionary families, and prepared the Missionary Album—books of great value to the Mission.

Mr. Andrews married, Feb. 22, 1874, in San Francisco, Miss Rosina Shrank, and had three sons, one of whom, James Marshall, died before his mother passed away, and Robert S. died in early manhood. On September 30, 1886, he married Miss Maria Sheeley, whom he had known when a student at Oxford, Ohio, and who, with his son Carl, survives him.

Mr. Andrews was devoted to church work, serving in various churches as member of the choir, S. S. superintendent or deacon, and giving of his means to church and civic betterment as he was prospered. Humility was a marked characteristic of his life, and an abiding trust in an over-ruling Providence. He never worried. He loved people, especially young people. Little children trusted him, some of them calling him "God's friend." Young college students from the University of California came to him with their problems. He was boon companion of the working man, loving tools only next to books. He was scholarly, taking great delight in scientific subjects, in discovery and invention, and delving into mathematics for the pure pleasure of it. He was also an ardent reader of Shakespeare and an accurate critic of history, his exact memory for dates, places and people serving him well in later years, when eyesight failed him. Chess was his favorite game. He enjoyed travel as only a lover of the sea and of strange scenes and peoples can enjoy it, but was content, when duty required, to take this pleasure second hand, from books.

Mr. Andrews' keen sense of humor, perhaps, helped him see only the glad side of life, for he had a rare faculty for being happy and for radiating a quiet peace and good will wherever he went. He had hosts of friends. Among the many messages of appreciation from these, one sends this quotation from the pen of J. Whitcomb Reilly.

"I can not say and I will not say
That he is dead,—he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into that unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.

* * * * *

"Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead—He's just away."

At Pearl City, Oahu, after a lingering illness Bernard Rudolf Banning fell into the sleep that knows no waking in the early morning of April 27th, 1923. He was the son of Clara Armstrong Banning and Frederick Banning of Honolulu, and the grandson of Richard and Clarissa Chapman Armstrong, 1832 Missionary Pilgrims in Hawaii. Born in Honolulu Jan. 10th, 1868, the first twelve years of his life were spent in Honolulu with happy associations among the kamaainas, and as a school boy at Punahou, which he called his "best days." With his parents he spent some years to America at nineteen years of age and living with his mother and abroad, finishing his school days in Germany and Belgium, returning Aunt Amelia Armstrong in Piedmont, Calif., after the death of his father. In later years after the death of his mother his residence alternated between California and Hawaii, where his interests centered largely. "He is not; for God took him." Let his memory abide with us as a loyal "Cousin" and a lover of Hawaii nei.

Mrs. Harriet Goodale Beckwith.—The news of the death of Mrs. George E. Beckwith on December 30, 1922, in Poughkeepsie, New York, has recently been received here. For the last few years Mrs. Beckwith had made her home in the East, latterly in Poughkeepsie with her daughters, Martha and Mary, the former of whom holds the chair of Anthropology and Folklore at Vassar College.

Mrs. Beckwith was Harriet Goodale, born in Marlboro, Massachusetts, March 23, 1836. She was a member of the class of 1856 at Mount Holyoke Seminary, one of the earliest of the schools for women. In the fall of 1861 she came out to the Islands to care for the motherless children of her brother Warren Goodale. Two years later she married George Ely Beckwith, who had been principal of the Royal School and instructor at Punahou. For four years their home was on Maui at the new Haiku Sugar Plantation of which Mr. Beckwith was the first manager. In 1867 the family moved to California, where the health of Mr. Beckwith, after a complete breakdown, necessitated a struggle of years in its re-establishment. In 1874 Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith returned to the Islands with their three children and later settled again in Haiku, where they lived until Mr. Beckwith's death in 1898. After an accident in 1918 resulting in the fracture of her hip, Mrs. Beckwith was never able to walk, but she kept her wonted cheerfulness. All during their lives she was an inspiration to her friends, particularly to her two daughters from the time when in their isolated Haiku home she taught them as children to print their letters and originate a tiny manuscript magazine of their own. Even beyond her eightieth year she retained her vivid interest in people and events, and was as up to date as any of the many friends who counted it a privilege to see her and write to her. Her letters will long be remembered as news journals of literary merit. Her going is a distinct loss to many widely distributed group of friends.

Ellen Mariner Bond Bicknell was born in Kohala, Hawaii, September 29, 1841, and there she spent her childhood, with no other white children as playmates save her younger brothers, she being the first born. She learned her A B C's at her mother's knee and as she grew older she became a great help in the housework and in the care of the younger children. We find her later attending Punahou School. An attractive girl with rosy cheeks and curly black hair she made quite an impression on the younger members of the family when at home during her vacations. Having completed her schooling she spent several years at home where she was of great assistance to her parents in church work, and when the first organ was received for the Hawaiian Church, quite a notable event, it fell to Ellen's lot to be the organist. Here in her quiet, happy home, Rev. James Bicknell, who had spent many years as a missionary in Micronesia, met her, and after several return visits, asked her to be his wife. They were married on the 19th of August, 1868, the ceremony being performed by her father in the home parlor. Attired in a simple white muslin dress, with white rose buds in her hair she looked as pretty as any of our modern brides. The wedding journey was taken on horseback to Kukuihaele, an isolated place in those days, the road a mere trail, passing through dense woods a part of the way. Here they labored for the Hawaiian people, Mr. Bicknell being the pastor of the church, and here their nine children were born.

In making a home and rearing her children Mrs. Bicknell suffered as many privations as many of the early missionaries. Sometimes going back to the old home nest when a little one was expected, the trip was made over the mountains on horseback, always a hard journey, or going by open whaleboat from Waipio along a rough coast, to land at Kapanaia, Kohala, and from there several miles on horseback. This was a hard undertaking in the best of weather, and with her little ones in the boat, it was positively perilous if the weather became rough. After some sixteen years of service in Hamakua Mr. Bicknell in December, 1884, moved to Honolulu for educational advantages for his children, and there he labored among the Hawaiians, under the Hawaiian Board, until death came to him suddenly while delivering a stirring address in Kaumakapili Church, September 18, 1892. After his death Mrs. Bicknell continued to reside in the home on Kukui St. until the family had become somewhat broken up, several of the children having gone to homes of their own. "Mother Bicknell" then bought a home on Punahou St. where she lived with her daughter Mrs. Storey and her son Robert. Here on her eightieth birthday she received congratulations from many of her old school-mates and friends who were the bearers of beautiful flowers and other gifts. Her children will long remember her joy and appreciation of the flowers, for which she had inherited a passionate love from her mother.

She passed peacefully away on the third of August, 1922, a few weeks before her eighty-first birthday, after a brief illness caused by a heavy cold which developed into pneumonia. C. S. B.

William Bond Bicknell was born in Kukuihaele, Hawaii, May 8th, 1873, the son of James and Ellen Bond Bicknell.

He received his early education at the old Fort St. school and Punahou, leaving for the mainland in 1892 to attend Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass. Later he went to Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., where he completed his studies.

For many years he was connected with the Portsmouth Navy Yard as an electrical draughtsman, his specialty being the draughting of plans for the wiring of naval vessels. In this same capacity he was later transferred to the Boston Navy Yard, where he was located at the time of his death.

His end came very suddenly and unexpectedly on January the 8th from heart failure.

Only last August while Dr. and Mrs. Henry Bicknell were in New York City he visited with them for a few days and appeared to be in the best of health.

He was unmarried and is survived by four brothers, Joseph D. of Muskegon, Michigan; James, Robert and Henry; and two sisters, Mrs. J. F. O'Brien and Mrs. Annie B. Storey, all of Honolulu.

H. B.

In Shanghai, China, on Sunday, October 22nd, 1922, just at the hour of church service, Harriet Gulick Clark, leaving her worn-out body, went gladly to join with the many relatives and friends who had preceded her, in the Sabbath service of Heaven.

She was a granddaughter of Peter J. Gulick, one of the early missionaries of Hawaii, and was born in 1856 on Ponape, one of the Caroline Islands, where her parents were pioneer missionaries.

Nine years of her girlhood were spent on these islands, then eight years in the United States, after that, two years in Japan with her parents. Returning to the United States she spent six years struggling for her health and more education, but was compelled to give up her course at Mt. Holyoke Seminary before graduation and also the medical course which she had planned for herself.

In 1887 she was married to Rev. Cyrus A. Clark and went with him to Japan as a missionary of the American Board.

After four years in Kumamoto Mr. and Mrs. Clark were invited by the people of Hyuga to live and work in their province, and the mission consented to their making trial in that isolated station for one year. This was lengthened out to thirty-one years. During all those years Mrs. Clark never had more than one lady associate, and much of the time she was the only foreign woman in the province, with her nearest American neighbor two days' journey distant.

In the early years of their life in Hyuga, people from all over the province flocked to see the foreigners and their home; whole schools came under the escort of their teachers, and hundreds of country folk who came to the county seat to worship at its famous shrine, or to see the sights of the metropolis included a call at the American house in their itinerary. Pleasantly greeting these people, graciously showing them all over the lower story of the house, including the dining-room and kitchen, which were especially interesting, and presenting each with a tract; or seeing that some one else performed this courtesy, was one of the minor but taxing duties sandwiched in between housekeeping, the care of her children, study of the Japanese language and various meetings.

She always had her house full of school girls whom she was helping educationally. This enterprise finally culminated in a dormitory home on the mission compound for thirty-five girls, studying in the various higher schools of Miyazaki.

Another institution which she founded was a school for the blind, which was carried on successfully for one year in one of the houses on the mission compound, after which it was turned over to a board of trustees, supported by the towns-people, and of late subsidized by the government.

Hers was a deeply religious nature, and it was the sense of the presence and help of her Heavenly Father that sustained her through all the years of her strenuous self-sacrificing life.

After the ashes were brought from Shanghai to Miyazaki, a memorial service was held in the church, which was largely attended, and at which appreciative addresses were made by the mayor of the city as well as by representatives from the various churches of the province.

The ministerial association of that region proposed to erect a stone monument to her memory. Mr. Clark objected to any such memorial, and it was finally decided to perpetuate her memory by raising a two thousand yen ($1,000.00) scholarship fund for theological students, preferably from Hyuga.

Late in November, when Sidney Gulick returned from China, a memorial service was held in Kobe and the ashes interred beside those of her mother in the Kobe cemetery.

The following is part of a poem written by her when passing through the Suez Canal with her mother in July, 1880.

Silence.

"Silence, deep silence
An ocean of infinite calm
Hath flooded my soul.
So deep is the silent sea,
That even my ruined hopes
Lie buried forever from sight;
So still is the fathomless deep,
That even my sleeping thoughts
Are hushed by the magical charm.

"Silently, slowly
The waters draw near to my barque,
Nearer and nearer they roll,
Till they splash on my barque—
The ark of God's promise—
And gently as mother e'er rocked her loved darling
They rock me! They bear me!
My spirit is sweetly at rest
Afloat on an ocean of peace.

"Silence, Heaven's silence,
The peace of a spirit at rest,
At one with its God.
Oh say, is it this? or is't only
A lull in the storm and the strife?
Nay doubt not my soul,—'tis the silence
In which the voice of thy God thou shalt hear,
'Tis the sea of thy Saviour's peace
O'er which thou shalt calmly sail
Through ages and ages to come."

Miss Pauline Wright Conde died July 6, 1922, at the age of 80 years, having been for the last four years a resident in the M. E. Old People's Home in Chicago. Such was the message received in August, from Mrs. W. A. Philips of Chicago.

Miss Pauline Conde was born Aug. 10, 1841, the third of the six children of Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Toll Conde. Hana, that beautiful but lonely district on southeast Maui, was probably her birthplace. When she was about seven years old her parents moved to Wailuku in the shadow of West Maui mountains with grand old Haleakala to the sunrise. Here the family remained till 1855, when her mother passed away. In 1856 they sailed for the United States and made their home in Indianapolis where some of the family reside still.

About 1865 Pauline, Lucy and Henry accompanied their father, who had recently married again, to their new home in Beloit, Wisconsin. In 1875 Miss Pauline was a teacher in Chicago.

In 1903 she was with her sister, Lucy King's family, at Rockford, Ill., and here in 1911, "Aunt Mattie" Chamberlain visited with her.

These are but a few glimpses, here and there, of a Cousin who spent a long life in the service and uplift of others. "Their works do follow them."

Lydia Shipley Bean Cox died April 10, 1922. The elder daughter of Joel and Hannah E. Bean, she was born in Iowa, May 7, 1860, and was brought by her parents to these islands the following year, when they spent a year visiting the Mission stations on Oahu, Maui and Hawaii. On her second birthday Lydia was made a life member of the Cousins' Society.

She worthily carried on the traditions of her Quaker inheritance. With a richly endowed nature, her zeal for knowledge and her delight in its widening horizons made her a rarely stimulating companion. She savored all the joys of life and love, and with broad human sympathy and a special gift with children she held a wide circle in her friendship.—Her hearthstone was indeed "a broad and pleasant place where many mingled."

Her spiritual growth kept pace with her intellectual development and her own words, written a few weeks before her death and in full knowledge that the end might be near, express her high faith and spiritual perception:—"When one has once seen the gleam of beauty in 'the maze of things,' when one has come close enough to another soul to see how its perfect possibility is working out and absorbing its defects and limitations into somewhat of unique spiritual product, when one has in other words loved, can he doubt that 'God's way is perfect?' "

She leaves a husband, Charles E. Cox, brother of Isaac M. Cox of this city, two daughters, Dr. Anna Cox Brinton, head of the classical department of Mills College, and Catharine Maria Cox, instructor in German at Stanford University, and a sister, Catharine E. B. Cox. C. E. B. C.

Miss Frances E. Ellis, after more than 20 years of semi-invalidism has been released from suffering and given the freedom of Eternity. This was surmised from the fact that her Annual Report, addressed to her at 38 Sargent St., Dorchester, Mass, was returned marked, "Deceased."

Miss Ellis became a member of the Cousins' Society in 1885 with a number of other ladies from the Essex St. Church, Boston. She wrote frequent letters to Miss M. A. Chamberlain, then Secretary of the Society. She was a member of a mission circle in that church which was formed in 1862 to help a pupil in India. They also became greatly interested in Kawaiahao Seminary and for years supported a little girl, Emma Napoleon, in that school.

In 1919 Miss Ellis wrote, "I was Secretary of the Foreign Missionary Society of our church for fifteen years, and was made a life member. It is nineteen years since I had this stroke. My family have all passed over the river since then, but I have many friends here, and I am nearing my 84th year." That was our last message from our Cousin, Miss Ellis.

Justin Edwards Emerson, fifth son of Rev. John S. Emerson, was born at Waialua, August 11, 1841. His mother was his first teacher, then he attended successively Punahou, Williams College and finally Harvard Medical School from which institution he was graduated in 1868. He practiced for the most part in Detroit where he was a specialist in mental and nervous diseases, and was clinical professor of nervous diseases in the Detroit College of Medicine.

For several years he had been in failing health and in February, 1922, became much worse and as soon as weather permitted was brought from Florida where he had been spending the winter to Clifton Springs Sanitarium where, except for a few months last summer, he remained. On Sunday, April 8, he entered upon the fuller life. Funeral services were held at Detroit, Mich., April 11, 1923.

Dr. Emerson had a very happy and useful life. He married Miss Wilimena H. Eliot, a descendant of Rev. John Eliot, the "Apostle to the Indians." They spent forty-six years of unclouded happiness together. It was a great joy to him to bring his wife to the home of his youth where they spent the winter of 1912-13.

Besides his widow he leaves surviving him three sons, Paul Eliot, Newark, N. Y., Philip Law, U. S. Navy, Ralf Pomeroy, Jackson, Mich.; a grandson and two brothers, Joseph S. Emerson of this city and Rev. Oliver P. Emerson of Brookline, Mass.

Miss Ida C. Foss died at Melrose, Mass., May 25, 1917. Such was the message received from the A. B. C. F. M., with the return of Miss Foss's Annual Report this year.

Miss Foss was introduced to Honolulu people in July, 1890, when, as the younger sister of Mrs. Rand, "glad to have a share in Foreign Mission work," she, with Miss Fletcher, Mr. Walkup, the Rands and the Channons, spent a week here on their way to Ponape.

During the following year, 1891, the Ponape missionaries were exiled from their home, and while on Kusaie suffered the effects of a terrific hurricane that swept over the islands. Mr. Rand became ill and Mrs. Rand brought him to Honolulu, where he recuperated, Miss Fletcher and Miss Foss in the meantime remaining to care for the girls whom they were allowed to take to Kusaie. In 1893 the clouds grew darker, the Ponapean school was disbanded, and they waited and watched for the door to open while the Spaniards defiantly cried, "Hands off!" The next year, when others returned, Miss Foss decided to remain and join the teachers at Ruk, that Mrs. Logan might be relieved to visit her children in the United States. So they worked and waited for about two years before deciding to close the Ruk School and return home. But just then Mrs. Logan came back alone and Miss Foss thought best to remain with her till another worker should come to take her place. She probably left the islands for America soon after this.

In the autumn of 1900, the "Queen of the Isles," bound from San Francisco to Micronesia with Miss Foss and Miss Palmer on board stopped for a few hours in Honolulu. They were on their way to Ponape, for an unforeseen Providence, the withdrawal of the Spaniards from the Caroline Islands, had enabled them to resume their work, so long at a standstill. In 1906 a cyclone passed over the islands, destroying everything,—and Miss Foss and Miss Palmer were camping under a rude shelter of a remnant of iron roofing, with the food problem the subject of greatest interest. We think she went back to Boston soon after this, as that was her address in 1910, and we believe also she has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Rand since then.

Rev. Walter Frear, D.D., 1828-1922. To have gone in and out the fold of such a shepherd as was Walter Frear for whom so lately Death put up the pasture bars, and to have had green fields and still waters a sure portion, is a spiritual experience.

Six years more would have given Walter Frear a century on our whirling planet, and for every day of his long life earth is the gladder and the better.

A visit to the old stone house in New Paltz, N. Y., the home of his ancestor Hugues Frerê, a French Huguenot arrived from Flanders in 1676, was to appreciate his inheritance of rugged pioneer character and circumstance, when a stockade for protection from the red man was the natural center of a settlement.

Bred from farmers, French and Dutch, Walter Frear began college at Williams with, later, three years and the degree of A.B. at Yale. Theological studies at Union and Andover Seminaries followed and, in 1854, ordination as a Presbyterian minister. The following year saw him established among the miners of California.

There being no Presbyterian mission in the state, Mr. Frear preached in the new and struggling Congregational churches and eventually spent the most of his ministry in Congregational work. Placerville, Grass Valley and Santa Cruz had his ministrations up to 1870.

While the stories of Bret Hart were revealing the "prevalence of human nature" in California mining regions, the private "Sabbath Journal of Walter Frear," a young, hard-worked, ill-paid missionary, was disclosing the life of a soul burdened by surrounding wickedness, self-examining as to meagre fruitage of toil, prayerful for an impulse of men's hearts toward righteousness. Two years passed before he could write, "We have had communion today, the first at which I ever officiated. I was too full for utterance." This was written at Placerville, where Mr. Frear met and, in 1858, married Miss Fanny Foster, a New England girl, who was to be for sixty-four years his companion, and who now, cherished of her children, survives him.

The years of Mr. Frear's pastorate in Honolulu, 1870-1881, were often recalled with joy and heart-warming, strenuous though they had been, with the demands of a family of six children, his parish, and many social, benevolent and educational duties pressing upon slender strength in the burden and the heat of the day. At the age of fifty-two, Mr. Frear regretfully left the islands, almost broken in health and little dreaming that nearly as many years lay ahead of him as had passed before he went to Honolulu.

A church at Oakland, work for the California Church Building Society and eleven and a half years as Pacific Representative of the A. B. C. F. M. brought him to seventy-five years of age, but still nearly a score of years remained to this "Servant of Jehovah" and successful work, educational, benevolent, financial and advisory, kept him young in spirit and in service.

A man of many natural and cultivated gifts, sane, balanced judicial in thought, steadfast and loyal to conviction, tolerant and broad-minded in viewpoint, outstanding qualities of his nature were great loveableness and large capacity for sympathy. The understanding heart was his, and through many years while his own family remained unbroken, no one could more tenderly enter into the losses and sorrows of others. In old age his administration of the communion was of rare spirituality and benediction. Alert and vigorous of mind, of marked self-reliance, filled with wise and kindly thought for others, strong in faith and vision to the end, at last this man of God fell asleep and was gathered to his fathers.

Arthur Floyd Griffiths.—As an educator, as a moral influence and as a citizen of Hawaii, Arthur Floyd Griffiths was for twenty years an outstanding personality.

Young but mature, and vigorous, with success already crowning his work in the fields in which he had labored in New York and New England, he took the reins at Punahou School in 1902 at the age of twenty-three.

His wisdom, manifested at this early age, was shown by the manner in which he attacked the work, not as a revolutionist but as a quiet, thoughtful and yet keen student of the school's affairs.

In his characteristic way he set to work zealously to familiarize himself with Punahou's history, traditions and problems as well as those of the Islands. In a surprisingly short time his mind had grasped the situation, his clear vision had conceived Punahou's future as vitally related to the life of the community.

He brought to the tasks of his office a cheerfulness, a sincerity of purpose and a human sympathy which invited the confidence of all and induced those in trouble to open up their hearts to him as a "Father Confessor." In such cases he always had for the offender words of wisdom which seldom failed to have a lasting effect.

After twenty years of association with him those of us who knew him most intimately in his work can testify to the fact that in later years, with the burden of the larger problems of the school and the community growing upon him and with a more profound wisdom in counsel, he was none the less approachable and sympathetic. The most trivial complaint was heard by him, was carefully sifted and handled with the most scrupulous justice.

Patience and calmness characterized his life and guided his decisions.

But details did not crowd out of his official life vital matters in the school's development or of community welfare. His motto was "Do the important thing first."

The esteem in which President Griffiths was held by pupils, teachers, parents, alumni and community reflects the measure of his success. Though still in his prime when called upon to give up his work, and shortly after to make "the great sacrifice," he accomplished a lasting work for Punahou and Hawaii.

His was a life abounding in service, one that will leave on the school and the community the impress of his human qualities. Our estimate of the richness of his life and his legacy to the school may be expressed fittingly in the words of one of our American poets written upon the death of a beloved sister,

"And yet, dear heart! remembering thee,
Am I not richer than of old
Safe in thy immortality,
What change can reach the wealth I hold?
What chance can mar the pearl and gold
Thy love hath left in trust with me?

Mrs. Sarepta Adeline Duncan Gulick, widow of Maj. Charles T. Gulick, passed away quietly on Oct. 17, at her home, 1030 Gulick Ave., Kalihi, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Gulick was born in Bordentown, N. J., March 23, 1835, and was 87 years old last March. She spent her girlhood in Philadelphia. When about 14 years old her family moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and it was there she met and married her husband, J. Thompson. It was just after the Civil War and the bridal couple's trip to their new home in Honolulu was long and tedious—by sailing vessel to Panama, thence to San Francisco, and from that port a stormy voyage in the leaky old China packet, "Helias," which touched at Honolulu only long enough to land passengers and mail and take on fresh water and provisions.

As a bride Mrs. Gulick arrived in Honolulu Dec. 24, 1864, and has spent all her life since then a resident of Honolulu.

After the death of her first husband Mrs. Thompson married Maj. Charles T. Gulick, who died in 1897 after 25 years of happy wedded life. Maj. Gulick was at one time connected with the Honolulu Iron Works, and later was very prominent in Court Circles. He was Premier and Minister of the Interior in 1885-1886.

At the 50th anniversary of her arrival in Honolulu, held in 1914, Mrs. Gulick said that the very first caller upon herself and husband when they arrived in 1864 was Kamehameha V. She had a very close friendship with Princess Ruth, Princess Likelike, and many other members of the royal household. She was also a very close friend of the late Queen Liliuokalani, and in the queen's last days, in 1917, she called to see the former ruler.

Mrs. Gulick had a charming personality and made many friends in all ranks of life. She leaves one son by her former marriage, John H. Thompson, and two grandchildren, Duncan M. Thompson, and Miss Kahiwa Thompson.

Rev. William Hooker Gulick died, Apr. 14, 1922, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. L. Lincoln, 2000 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

As one of the younger members of the Gulick family, William Hooker, as he was known at Punahou, followed the elder boys, Orramel, Charles and John, somewhat later. Although a good deal younger than William, I remember him as a light-hearted boy, full of fun and very good-natured. My impression is that he was an unusually good scholar.

All the Gulicks were missionaries, and he no less than the rest. He, with his charming wife, with great faith and courage, established schools in Spain, giving their lives to this splendid enterprise. I wish I were able to give some details of their experience. These schools, I understand, were boarding schools, and became a strong and healthful influence in that very pronounced Roman Catholic country, and won the respect and confidence of the authorities.

At the fiftieth anniversary of Punahou a big luau was held, and other exercises celebrating the day; among these was a foot race by the visiting alumni; William Hooker was one of those present, also Sam Armstrong. The race course was somewhat encroached upon by the crowd of spectators and the runners hardly had a good chance to display their speed; John Waterhouse succeeded in evading the press and won the race; others impeded each other; some of us fell down in the mix-up; Sam Armstrong's coat was hopelessly torn and William Hooker, a swift runner of old, lost his chance in the medley.

William Hooker was very loyal to Punahou and the Cousins' Society. His occasional visits home with his wife were much appreciated by his old comrades. S. B. D.

John Thomas Gulick was born at Waimea, Kauai, March 13, 1832, and died at his home in Honolulu, Apr. 14, 1923. His early childhood at Koloa was marred by a siege of opthalmia, when for a whole year he spent the sunlit hours in a darkened room to save his eyesight. He was ever responsive to the voice of nature, and the cool winds from Mt. Waialeale, the dash of the sea upon the shore, and the rush, the roar and the sad moaning of the Spouting Horn at Koloa made their lasting impress on his character. "But the saddest of days since the day I was born," he says, was the day when at the age of 8 years he saw his eldest brother, a boy of 12, "sail out on the mists till we saw him no more." When he was 9 years old he entered Punahou as a boarder, while his parents moved from the station at Koloa, to Kaluaaha, Molokai, and thence to Waialua, Oahu; and the horseback rides over plains and uplands to his Waialua home were happy events.

At the age of 17, his health requiring a change, he was sent to Oregon. While there he joined a horseback party to the gold fields. Here he dug gold, tasted of the wild frontier life, regained his health and then returned to Punahou. Like all Punahou boys he roamed the hills for land shells which he studied, assorted and classified. He accompanied his brother, Dr. Halsey Gulick, to Micronesia where he received practical lessons in mission work.

A course at Williams College and two years' study at Union Theological Seminary at New York City was his preparation for work. In 1861 he left by way of Panama, arriving in Japan in 1862, supporting himself as photographer and teacher while awaiting an appointment from the A. B. C. F. M. Here he married Miss Emily de la Cour. They were sent in 1864 to North China, were shipwrecked by the way and rescued by pirates. They found the work difficult, lonely and discouraging, and in 1875 they returned to Japan, where Mrs. Gulick, worn out in the service, laid down her life. Here Mr. Gulick assumed his brother Orramel's literary work while the latter rested by a long voyage home.

On May 31, 1880, Mr. Gulick married Miss Frances A. Stevens and they continued under the American Board till 1899. Two children were born to them, Addison Gulick and Louise, now Mrs. R. B. Whitaker. In 1895 the degree of Ph.D. was conferred on Mr. Gulick from the Western Reserve University, and in 1905, from Oberlin College, the degree of Sc.D.

From 1900 to 1905 Dr. Gulick and family resided in Oberlin, Ohio, where he spent much time in the study of evolution, publishing in 1905 his "Evolution, Racial and Habitudinal," and writing also some other scientific publications. He was a friend of Darwin and other scientists and his friendships were world wide. But amid all his wanderings, in all his diversified interests he had a longing for Hawaii. Many years ago, Dr. Gulick wrote these lines, quoted in our Annual Report.

> "O calm retreat upon the sunlit seas,
> O quiet shades, beyond this toil and strife;—
> Beyond the ceaseless rush and busy whirl,
> On your fair shores may I my canvas furl
> And rest from all this care and fevered life,
> Waiting the final call when God shall please."

Irene Kahalelaukoa (Ii) Brown Holloway.—Born at Waipio, Ewa, Oahu, Sept. 30, 1869, the daughter of an Hawaiian chief, Irene Kahalelaukoa Ii was heir to a noble heritage, her father, John Ii, being a man of the highest character, adviser to King Kamehameha III, and the first Hawaiian judge to sit upon the bench of the Supreme Court of this country.

Early left fatherless, Irene was placed by her guardian, Judge A. F. Judd, in the family of the Rev. C. M. Hyde where she received a daughter's care and grew up in loving companionship with their sons Henry and Charlie. Her education begun at Kawaiahao Seminary, was continued at Punahou, where the bright happy girl made many friends. Irene became a member of the "Cousins' Society" when a child and is remembered by many of the older Cousins as one of the "Veranda Brigade," too young to fully comprehend "The Maile Wreath" when read at the monthly meetings of the Society on the Saturday night nearest the full moon!

Her marriage at the age of seventeen to Charles Augustus Brown of Worcester, Mass., was followed by an extended visit to the Eastern States, which Irene enjoyed to the full. George Ii Brown was born in Honolulu in 1887 and Francis Hyde Ii Brown in 1893, while an infant daughter, Bernice Kamamalu, died in 1894.

Irene's life was a blessing to many people and her constant interest in the Hawaiians was shown in never-failing ministries of love. The Hawaiians on her large estates were ever kept in remembrance, their needs being personally sought out and met by this daughter of an alii. The old people of Lunalilo Home received individual gifts each Christmas carefully wrapped by her loving hands. She was a member of Kawaiahao Church, a trustee of Kawaiahao Seminary, a regent of the Daughters of Hawaii, and one of the first women to be elected on the Hawaiian Board of Missions.

After the death of her second husband, Carl S. Holloway, in upper Nuuanu Valley in 1905, Irene spent much time at Waimea, Hawaii, where she loved the grandeur of the three mountains in sight from her home. Lavish in hospitality and kindly in nature, she was generous to an extreme. Her illness was of comparatively short duration and she died in Honolulu Aug. 26, 1922, at the age of 53.

A noble daughter of a noble chief, she has left a worthy example of Christian living for her sons and grandsons to follow. A. E. J.

Ellen Chamberlain (Goodale) Howard entered into rest Oct. 3, 1922. Ellen Goodale was born in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, Feb. 17, 1861, the daughter of Warren and Ellen R. (Whitmore) Goodale, of Marlboro. After the death of her mother she, with her brothers and sister, came to live with an uncle, Deacon David B. Goodale, in Hudson, when about three years of age. This was her home until the date of her marriage.

Her education was confined to the Marlboro public schools and Mt. Holyoke Seminary. Upon leaving the Seminary she taught in the towns of Bolton and Townsend. On Jan. 25, 1888, she was married to Albert S. Howard of this town by the late Rev. A. F. Newton, then pastor of the Congregational church of Marlboro, of which she was a member. That year she transferred her membership to the Townsend Congregational church, where for thirty-four years she has been devoted to the church in all its varied interests and was rarely absent from her place in the family pew. She knew the time and place to say the word of approval and encouragement to her ministers, and her Sunday school class, Missionary society and L. B. S. of the church will miss her counsel and inspiration. She was also a faithful member of the Phoebe Weston Farmer Tent, D. of V., in town, and of the Monday club. Mrs. Howard was a woman of wide sympathies and interests, charitable in deed as well as in thought, giving comfort, encouragement and the benediction of a sweet presence in many a household.

Her life was a daily demonstration of her religion and most beautiful at its close, for her peaceful death befitted such a life. Calmly she closed her eyes on earthly scenes, confidently expecting to open them in the "heavenly Jerusalem," where the glory of God is the light thereof. Thus she entered "beyond the veil" at the evening hour of October third, leaving to her sorrowing family the precious memory of her lovely life for their comfort.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, Lewis Warren, of Waialua, Hawaii; David Goodale, of Annapolis, Md., and Charles Spaulding Howard, of Washington, D. C., and by three grandchildren, Caroline Cranston, Lewis Warren, Jr., and David Goodale, Jr., and by three brothers, Charles Warren, of Butte, Montana; William Whitmore, of Waialua, Hawaii, and her twin brother, David Goodale, of Marlboro. —From Townsend, Mass., Paper.

Harlan Page Ives passed into life eternal July 17, 1922. He was the second son of Rev. Mark and Mary Brainerd Ives of the 8th Company sailing from Boston December 14, 1836, on the barque Mary Frazier. He has been a member of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society since 1911. Born in Kealakekua August 14, 1840, he attended the Punahou School until leaving the Islands at the age of fourteen. He lived as a boy at the Old Mission House and also at the Chamberlain House.

The failing health of his father necessitated the return of the family to the States and from 1853 to 1864 his home was in Cornwall, Connecticut, where his parents are laid to rest in the little cemetery where lies also the body of Henry Obookiah and in which town was established the first mission school in 1817. One sister, Miss Mary Parnelly Ives of Paradise, California, survives him.

In 1863, Mr. Ives married Elvira Vaill of Cornwall who survives him and to them were granted nearly sixty years of wedded happiness. There are nine children, all of whom are living, and eleven grandchildren. In 1864, Mr. and Mrs. Ives went to Vineland, New Jersey, living there four years. Here he was junior deacon in the Congregational Church, playing the organ and taking an active part in the uplift of this little pioneer community. Returning to Cornwall in 1868 he again made it his home until 1880. Here he was closely associated with the Congregational Church, serving as deacon and organist.

In 1880, feeling the necessity of a larger opportunity and greater advantages for his large family, he moved to Danbury, Connecticut, where he made his home for the rest of his days. In Danbury he was a member of the Congregational Church for forty-two years and for many years a teacher in the Sunday School.

Of an unusually retiring disposition, his chief pleasure was in his home and his marked characteristics were a keen love of nature and delight in good music.

He was a devout and consistent Christian and a great student of the Bible.

He was laid to rest in beautiful Wooster Cemetery under a cedar tree, his six sons bearing his body to its last resting place. Rightly could it be said of him,

"He was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith."

Peter Cushman Jones was born Dec. 11, 1837, and died April 22, 1922.

He was called Cushman by his friends in Honolulu, but I understand that in Boston, his home town, he was familiarly known as Peter. I first met him at Mr. John Ladd's home at the foot of Emma Street where we were invited to dinner by the Ladds—old friends of ours. Mr. Jones was taking his meals there. He was still wearing his Boston clothes—something of an advance on Honolulu standards. He was then doing work as wharf clerk for Mr. Field, I think. As we were living on Kauai, I did not then see much of him, but when I returned to Honolulu from the mainland in 1869, I soon became acquainted with him. I found him a deeply religious man; he and his friend Henry Carter were prominent in the serious affairs of life in Honolulu; the organization of the Y. M. C. A. owed much to their initiative. In harmony with his religion, Mr. Jones enjoyed the world; when he got ahead financially and had his own home, he kept a good table and entertained considerably. He was a very patriotic American and was often called upon for addresses on patriotic occasions. He was a forcible speaker and would often happily season his remarks with humorous incidents of his own experience—very amusing and very apropos. By his industry, business judgment and integrity he became wealthy as the years went on, and was very generous in his prosperity in matters of charity. The Palama Settlement was initiated by him and Mrs. Jones, filling a much needed want in the Hawaiian and Oriental part of Honolulu. Happily married, with a lovely home life, he gave himself greatly to the public affairs of Honolulu. With a distaste for politics and official life, he yielded to the call of emergency and became Minister of Finance in the trying latter days of the monarchy and the beginning of the Republic of Hawaii, attended, as he felt they were, with self-sacrifice and personal danger.

Mr. Jones was a loyal and devoted friend of the Cousins' Society. From my long and delighful acquaintance with him and his family, it is hard to find in his character any real faults or things to condemn. He regretted that he had not taken a course of study in some college, as he had opportunity to do.

He impresses me as a whole-souled, courageous, and generous character—a man of honor. S. B. D.

Miss Harriet Cornelia Leete, of 89 Everit St., New Haven, Conn., has "passed on" during the year. Her Annual Report was returned, marked "Deceased." When last she wrote she was on the way to the hospital and said she was too old and too near her end to be considered as a living Cousin, but she was glad she had been one of our Cousin band. She became a member in 1885.

Rev. John Mortimer Lydgate.—On Monday night, November 27, 1922, our cousin, John M. Lydgate, passed on after an illness of three months. His going is a real loss to Hawaii and to the Cousins, for his was a mind of vivid interest in many directions.

Born in Canada in 1854, he came to Hawaii as a lad, and settled with his parents on the island of Hawaii. His father was a mill-builder of note in his home country; on Hawaii he built the substantial old Hilo wharf, and later started Laupahoehoe Plantation.

One of the great inspirations of John Lydgate's life was the influence of another beloved Cousin, William Dewitt Alexander, president of Punahou when young Lydgate went there as a student in the late sixties. The young president not only lent his books, but made him a close friend, and for years it was the boy's ambition to possess all the books which his older friend had mentioned in their frequent conversations. It was from the young Punahou president also that he had his first lessons in surveying, a branch in which the boy showed a keen interest and aptitude. Summer after summer was spent in such valuable training. One memorable summer vacation included a never-to-be-forgotten expedition over the islands with the famous botanist, Dr. Hillebrand, whose companionship opened up endless new worlds of interest to the inquiring mind of our young Punahou student. His first surveying alone was done on the beach lands between Wailuku and Kahului, on Maui. This was his first independent "job," at the age of seventeen, and from that day on his parents were at no expense for his education. He put himself through college at Toronto University, and Yale Divinity School, beside attending courses at Edinburgh Free Church College and the University of Berlin.

From 1880 to 1888 he was manager of Laupahoehoe Plantation on Hawaii which had been started by his father. Following a pastorate of several years in the State of Washington, he returned to the Islands, where he was called in 1896 to organize the Lihue Union Church on Kauai, a pastorate which he held for twenty-four years, while acting also as agent for the Hawaiian Board of Missions. He was for many years managing director of McBryde Plantation, and literary editor of Kauai's weekly paper, The Garden Island.

His interests in the community were varied,—social, religious, historical, scientific, dramatic,—all ably seconded by his wife who had been a teacher at Malumalu School, and by his growing family of four sturdy boys. He was a leading spirit not only in building the church edifice of Lihue Union Church, but also in such diversified enterprises as the beginnings of the public library, the starting of McBryde Plantation, the erection of public halls in both Lihue and Eleele, the organization of the Lihue Ice Works, and the establishment of both the Chamber of Commerce and the Kauai Historical Society. For years he spent much time giving talks in the public schools from his store of legend and history, and latterly originated the popular Hui Hele Loa, the trail and mountain club of Kauai, which afforded many young teachers their first glimpse of Hawaiian lore. His interest in botany never flagged, nor his devotion to the history of his adopted country, as evinced by his literary achievements in the realm of history and folklore where he was an indefatigable student. Hardly a year passed without the contribution of numerous articles to such authorities as Thrum's Annual and the historical societies of both Kauai and Oahu. Furthermore, he looked ahead as well as back, for as an active member of the Kauai Historical Society he both advocated and achieved the preservation of many local historical monuments by private means and county and territorial authorities, as well as the reservation of such sites as public parks, breathing spaces for the future. Eminently appropriate is it then that the new section on the Wailua River site of the old Hauola Heiau, is to be named Lydgate Park. At the time of his death, John Lydgate, far from being exhausted by an exceedingly active life, held the arduous position of Territorial Land Agent for the County of Kauai, a difficult task which he performed admirably.

Sixty-seven years may not seem a long life, perhaps, as lives go. Yet to have filled it full, as John Lydgate did, is to have lived it well. —Contributed.

Dr. C. Fessenden Nichols, of 74 Boylston St., Boston, Mass., is another Cousin who has left us during the year, as his book was returned marked "Deceased." Dr. Nichols was the first Homeopathic physician practicing in Honolulu. He joined the H. M. C. Society and was editor of the Maile Wreath in 1880, but left the following year for the United States, carrying with him the fond regrets and pleasant memories of the Society, who appreciated his literary gifts and his participation in the higher aspirations of the Cousins.

In 1883 he wrote from Salem, Mass., and sent an article for the Maile Wreath. He was married in Boston, Mass., Nov. 1, 1884, to Miss Grace B. Houston. For many years his address has been in Boston.

"Miss Helen Sarah Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Norton, was born at Dexter, Mich., May 28th, 1839, and died at the home of her brother, H. W. Norton, in Howell, Mich., Feb. 19, 1923, aged 83 years, 8 months and 22 days. In 1848 she moved with her parents to the farm in Marion township. She attended school in Buffalo, N. Y., and at Alexander, N. Y. Later she attended and graduated from Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

Miss Norton then taught for some years at Howell, Mich., Fond du Lac, Wis., and at Wheaton College, Ill. She then worked for years in the Auditor General's Office in Lansing, Mich. During this period she became a charter member of the First Congregational Church of Lansing."

There are some in Honolulu who will remember Miss Norton as Principal of Kawaiahao Seminary in the early 80's. She was in charge during the epidemic of cholera in Honolulu. New buildings were erected during the five years of her incumbency, and some of the old adobe buildings torn down. She was greatly interested in the upbuilding of the native race and optimistic regarding all efforts made for their uplift. She became a Cousin while here and in all her life took a keen interest in all improvements—the building of the Mission Memorial, repairs on the Chamberlain House and especially in the Centennial.

"After leaving Hawaii Miss Norton made her headquarters in Boston and traveled as a representative of the Mission Board among the colored churches of the South and then for a few years taught at Eustis, Florida. For fifteen or more years she has been at the home of her brother, H. W. Norton, at Howell, Mich.

Miss Norton's chief interests were Missions and Education. Even in her advanced years she was a teacher in the Sabbath School of the Presbyterian church and a worker in the Missionary Society. She was also a member of the D. A. R. and of the Howell Women's Club. She was a student always and her sympathies were worldwide. She was a noble woman and her works do follow her."

—Clippings from a Howell, Mich., paper.

Miss Susan Maria Potter was born Feb. 5, 1829, of an old American family founded by Marmaduke Potter, the first settler, in 1670, at Woodbridge, N. J. She was the ninth of the ten children of James and Elizabeth Campbell Potter, who lived on a farm on the banks of the Raritan river. Some of these six boys and four girls died and the rest married,—all except one brother and herself, who, after the father's death in 1855 kept the home for their mother, with open house and open hearts for all the relatives and friends who loved to visit the old home.

During these years occurred the Civil War, with all that it meant of sorrow, sacrifice, heartache and loss. For it was hers to visit the camp and close the eyes of one to whom she had given the love of her young heart.

Her mother died in 1868 and her brother in 1870. The home was broken up and she went to her brother, Joel C. Potter, in San Mateo, Calif., where she remained for eleven or twelve years.

In 1883 she came to Hawaii, and for seven years fitted into the varied life and duties of a girls' boarding school at Maunaolu, Maui. Situated 2,000 feet above the sea on the side of grand old Haleakala, she enjoyed the grand scenery and the climate that called for neither fan nor fire. She coaxed the flowers into bloom by her patient, smiling devotion,—and the best that was in the girls' life bloomed out when helping her. She was a jewel in the sick room, for very soon all aches and pains fled before her quiet, soothing ways, and it became a great privilege to "drink medicine" of Miss Potter's own making. Home-made dresses were much more popular for concerts and entertainments than more dainty, bought ones. She loved to plan outings for the younger teachers, and was ever ready to assume another's duties that the other might have a rest. While at Maunaolu she was made a member of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Pacific Islands and of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society, or "Cousins' Society," with headquarters at Honolulu.

Miss Potter returned to the States in 1889, and in 1890 bought a home in Port Jefferson, Long Island. A beloved niece, Elizabeth Dezendorf, shared her home, her cares and her joys. She loved her church and its work—was one of the founders of its missionary society, which often met at her house. The strangers in her vicinity were in her heart—a subject of great care. And when the Great War came she was almost at the edge of a great ship-yard, with camps on the east and on the west, with the best young men gone and the town filled with strangers—it was then that she lived over again the anguish of the 60's; but she felt sure that God would bring great good out of it.

At the age of 90, when the epidemic of "flu" laid hold of near friends her talent for nursing was not forgotten. She always retained her love for Hawaii and her friends here. "Love," she writes, "never grows old or out of fashion." About two months before her death she celebrated her 92nd birthday—"and never a brighter one." she wrote. She was looking forward to the "Springtime—the joy of this climate—the awakening."

Very soon after penning these words she had her own "awakening" and her celestial "joy."

Mrs. Walter Scott.—The sudden death of Mrs. Walter Scott, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hyde Rice of Lihue, has come as a shock to everyone on Kauai. Mrs. Scott's death occurred Monday afternoon, January 22, 1923, in Honolulu, where she was recovering from a severe operation which developed unexpected complications.

Mrs. Scott (nee Mary Eleanor Rice) was born in Lihue, November 25, 1880. She attended Punahou School and Mills College in California. In 1902 she was married to Walter F. Scott of San Francisco, and for many years her home was made in or near the Bay City. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Scott moved with their family of five daughters to Honolulu where their many friends welcomed them to a new home. Mrs. Scott had a radiant personality of great charm which endeared her to a very wide circle of friends who find it impossible to realize that she is no longer here.

Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, nee Harding, died in Honolulu on February 17, 1923.

As Helen Amy Harding, she was born in New Brunswick, Canada, and was married in Welsford, New Brunswick, on February 26, 1900, to Dr. Ernest C. Waterhouse. She came to Honolulu with her husband in the same year, and, with the exception of several years' residence abroad and an occasional visit to her former home in Canada, had resided here ever since. Besides her husband she is survived by three children: Helen Amy, who is at present attending Smith College; Ernest Burton Leigh, who is a freshman at Princeton University; and Gwendolen, who is now attending the Burnham School in Northampton, Mass. M. W. W.

Norton Edward Wilcox, son of Charles H. Wilcox, was born in California on July 16, 1882, and died at Berkeley, Calif., August 15, 1922. He left a wife, who was Grace Cheek, of Oakland, and one daughter, Miriam.

Two little ones only, from all our Cousinhood, were gathered with the ripened sheaves into the garner of the Lord.

Baby William Woodford Loomis, here only long enough to leave his message of love, was carried away in June, and Little Stanley Smith, born in Kula, Maui, in 1917, slipped from earth in July, after four and a half years of sweet, loving babyhood.

Safe are they forever from pain, from temptation, from struggle with sin, from fear of failure,—"safe in the arms of Jesus."

Since arranging this list for the printer the records of three deaths have been handed to the Secretary.

Ernest August Bindt has been a member of the H. M. C. Soc. for many years, but no date of death was given with the notice.

Frank Douglas Brewster died at Wailuku, Maui, Apr. 26, 1923.

Mary Emily Hitchcock, aged 3 years, died at Kaluaaha, Molokai, April 19, 1923.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. R. W. ANDREWS,
Secretary.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

To all to whom these presents shall come, I, Alexander J. Campbell, Treasurer of the Territory of Hawaii, send greeting:

Whereas, Clarence Hyde Cooke, President; Albert Francis Judd, Vice-President; Maria Sheeley Andrews, Secretary; Robert Wilson Andrews, Recorder, and Lyle Alexander Dickey, Treasurer of an association known as The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society, have in behalf and by authority of the said association made application to me, as Treasurer of the Territory of Hawaii, to grant the said association a charter of incorporation under the corporate name of The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society for the purposes of perpetuating the memory of the missionary fathers and mothers who brought Christianity to these Islands, of promoting union among its members, of cultivating in them an active missionary spirit, stirring them up to good deeds and of assisting in the support of Christian work:

Now, therefore, know ye that I, the said Alexander J. Campbell, as such Treasurer aforesaid, and by and with the consent of the Governor of the Territory and in the exercise and execution of every power and authority in any wise enabling me in this behalf, do hereby constitute the members of the said association a body corporate under the name of The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society for the term of fifty years for the purposes aforesaid with power by that name in their corporate capacity to sue and be sued, to adopt and use a seal and the same to alter at pleasure, to take, purchase, receive, hold, sell and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, not exceeding in the whole sum the value of $100,000.00 and to mortgage the same to secure any debt of the corporation. Its location shall be in said Honolulu. It shall have power to make By-Laws for the management of its property, the election and removal of its officers and members and the regulation of its affairs, and such By-Laws from time to time to repeal, alter or amend, but the Constitution and the By-Laws heretofore adopted by the said association shall be the By-Laws of the said corporation until the same shall have been repealed, altered or amended with the exception of Articles 1, 2 and 10 of said constitution.

There shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer of the corporation, upon any one of whom service of process may be made, whose names and residences and also the By-Laws of the corporation shall be filed in the Office of the Treasurer of the Territory.

No stock shall be issued nor dividends paid by the corporation.

The members of the said association and such other persons as shall from time to time be elected as members shall be members of the corporation and its officers shall be the same persons who are now the officers of the said association until otherwise provided by the corporation.

The property of the said corporation shall alone be liable for payment of its debts and liabilities.

In witness whereof I hereby set my hand and official seal this 10th day of August, A. D. 1907.

(Signed) A. J. CAMPBELL,
Treasurer Territory of Hawaii.

I hereby consent to the granting of the foregoing Charter this 14th day of August, A. D. 1907.

(Signed) G. R. CARTER,
Governor of Hawaii.

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE 1.

The officers of the corporation shall be a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Auditor and a Recorder, all of whom, except the Recorder, shall be elected by ballot, to hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected or appointed.

ARTICLE 2.

At each annual meeting of the corporation, or as soon after as possible, the President shall appoint not less than three nor more than ten members, who, together with the officers mentioned in Article 1, shall constitute a Board of Managers, and who shall hold office until the next annual meeting, or until their successors are appointed.

ARTICLE 3.

Any descendant, or consort of a descendant of those who are or who have been members of the American Protestant Mission of these Islands, or are members of this corporation, may become a certified Life Member by paying ten dollars at one time, or one dollar as a first payment and one dollar or more annually thereafter until ten dollars has been paid.

ARTICLE 4.

All members of the American Protestant Mission are Honorary Members of this corporation. Any person may be admitted as an Honorary member by the consent of the Board of Managers, approved by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any meeting of the Society.

ARTICLE 5.

Any member may appeal from any action of the Board of Managers. If the appeal is seconded, such action may be reversed by a majority vote of the members present.

ARTICLE 6.

The corporation shall hold an annual meeting in April, in commemoration of the landing of the Missionaries in these Islands. Officers for the ensuing year shall be elected, reports of retiring officers read and appropriations made. Special meetings may also be held at the call of the President whenever any missionary or social interest shall in his opinion render such meeting desirable.

ARTICLE 7.

Each member may upon application receive a certificate of membership in the following form, to be signed by the President and countersigned by the Treasurer:

One generation passeth away and another generation cometh; but the earth abideth forever.—Eccl. 1:4.

Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity:—Ps. cxxxiii:1.

This May Certify that

Treasurer.

Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.—Mark xvi:15.

Charity suffereth long and is kind; is not easily provoked; thinketh no evil. Cor. xiii:4-5.

ARTICLE 8.

The President shall preside over the meetings of the corporation, appoint the Recorder and all committees not otherwise provided for, sign all certificates of membership and arrange the program of exercises for each meeting. He may convene the corporation to special meetings at his discretion. He shall also be ex-officio President of the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE 9.

The Vice-President shall perform all the duties of the President in case of his absence.

ARTICLE 10.

It shall be the duty of the Secretary, who may be a salaried officer, to keep a record of the proceedings of the corporation at its several meetings, make out an abstract of the proceedings of the corporation for its annual meeting, and be, ex-officio, Secretary of the Board of Managers. The Secretary shall carry out the correspondence of the corporation at home and abroad, take charge of the books and papers of the corporation, see to the publication of matters of interest, and report at the annual meeting.

ARTICLE 11.

The Treasurer shall receive and safely keep all moneys belonging to the Corporation, and pay out therefrom only upon order of the Board of Managers or on approval of the President. He shall countersign all certificates of membership, and shall at each annual meeting present an accurate statement of the receipts and disbursements of the corporation during the year, and of its invested funds, and present his books and vouchers to the Auditor to audit before the annual meeting.

The Treasurer may appoint, with the approval of the President, an Assistant Treasurer to whom he may delegate as much of the duties and responsibilities of the Treasurer as may be appropriate or desirable. The year referred to in this Article will be the calendar year.

ARTICLE 11-A.

The Auditor shall examine the books and accounts of the Society at least once each year and, if he shall find the same correct and properly vouched and all securities and balances accounted for, certify thereto upon the Treasurer's books.

ARTICLE 12.

All membership fees shall be placed in a fund to be known as "The Maintenance Fund." The fund shall be kept invested. Until the principal thereof become $1000.00 the interest from such fund shall be added thereto. After such amount shall have accumulated, the interest of the fund may be used in defraying the running expenses of the corporation.

ARTICLE 13.

The Recorder, who may be a salaried officer, shall keep a book of records, in which shall be placed the names of all the missionaries sent to the Hawaiian Islands by the A. B. C. F. M. prior to the year 1900, their date of arrival, departure, death, and such other information of historical value as may be collected.

Also the names of all the descendants of each of said missionaries, their marriage, residence, death, and any data of value relating to them which may be obtained.

The names of all the life members of this Corporation shall be recorded.

This book of records shall be kept in such a manner that the genealogy of any name upon its pages may be traced accurately to his or her missionary ancestor.

ARTICLE 14.

§1. It shall be the duty of the Board of Managers to Superintend all business transactions of the Corporation not otherwise provided for, have the general control and management of the property of the Corporation, subject to the By-Laws and such resolutions as shall from time to time be adopted at meetings of the corporation, and to keep full and correct minutes of its own proceedings.

§2. Any member desiring to bring any business before the Board of Managers shall make known such business in a written application to some member of the Board, who shall lay it before the Board for its action.

§3. The Board of Managers shall decide upon all applications for membership under Article 4 of the By-Laws; and also make recommendations concerning the disposition of the funds of the corporation.

§4. A report of the Board of Managers shall be presented to the corporation at each meeting.

§5. Any vacancies occurring in the Board of Managers, by death or otherwise, may be filled by the President.

§6. Special meetings of the Board may be called by the President at his discretion, or by three members thereof. The Secretary of the Board shall note the members present at each meeting. Three members with the President, or a majority of the Board, shall constitute a quorum.

ARTICLE 15.

The President shall appoint a Publication Committee of three members, one of which shall be retired from service each year, and the vacancy filled by appointment of the same or of another member of the corporation. The committee shall supervise all matters connected with the printing and distributing of the publications of the corporation and shall assist, when called upon, the Secretary and Recorder, both of which officers shall be ex-officio members of the committee.

ARTICLE 16.

1. The regular meetings of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society shall be opened by prayer and the singing of a hymn.
2. The minutes of the last meeting shall be read by the Secretary.
3. The report of the Board of Managers, Secretary and Treasurer shall then be read and acted upon.
4. A collection shall be taken up by the Treasurer.
5. Next shall follow miscellaneous business.
6. The entertainment provided for shall then be in order.
7. After which the meeting may be closed by singing.

The meetings shall be open to such guests as any of the members may invite.

At special meetings it shall not be required that the order of business laid down for the regular meetings be observed.

ARTICLE 17.

§1. In Miscellaneous Business no one shall speak more than five minutes at a time without permission from the Society.

§2. In all points of order the presiding officers shall be guided by the rules laid down in Roberts' Rules of Order.

ARTICLE 18.

These By-Laws may be amended or annulled by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at any meeting of the corporation, such alterations having been handed in in writing through the Board of Managers, or by three members.

LIFE MEMBERS OF THE HAWAIIAN MISSION CHILDREN'S SOCIETY, 1923.

SYMBOLS IN THE LIST OF MEMBERS.

Original members of the Society, whether children of missionaries or elect members, have their names printed in the usual manner. The names of their children are preceded by one star, and those of children's children by two stars.

In many cases the name is preceded by a symbol in the margin, which denotes the person's missionary parentage or ancestry; and the key to the symbols is the list below, in which the missionary names are given, but no titles.
